Food Drive Wins Pledge Of Support By Churches

A Slice of Bread Saved Grows Into 7 Million Loaves, Luckman Says

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Religious leaders yesterday threw their support to President Truman's campaign to save food for hungry Europe.

In messages to Food Committee Chairman Charles Luckman, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders indorsed the program and pledged their aid in putting it across.

Luckman, meanwhile, appeared on a network broadcast in which he answered questions from housewives across the country speaking on the same program.

He said that by voluntary rationing in their own homes Americans could provide an additional 100 million bushels of wheat for Europe's hungry this winter, and that a cut of one slice a day of bread consumption by each American would save 7,500,000 loaves daily.

Tells of Savings

Every saving of one pound of beef, Luckman said, saves two and a half times that weight in grain because two and a half pounds of grain are required to produce every pound of beef.

In answer to a question as to why those who visit Europe's famine areas bring back such widely differing reports, he said:

"Hunger does not meet the eye until its becomes starvation. Thank God, we have not reached that point in Europe yet. If we all do our part, that point will not be reached."

Luckman said that bakers of the Nation had promised to do their part by halting consignment selling of bread, thus saving "some 3,500,000 bushels of wheat per month."

Indifference Apparent

The first week of the campaign ended, however, with considerable indifference and some rebellion apparent. Restaurant operators, who have in general shown little enthusiasm for meatless, eggless and poultryless days, were scheduled to meet with Luckman today.

Meet With Distillers

Another meeting will be held today with representatives of the Nation's distillers to fix a date for beginning the 60-day whisky-making holiday to which a majority of the industry have agreed. Wednesday has been set for a meeting with brewers' representatives to seek an agreement on curtailment of use of grain in beer manufacture.

Senator Revercomb (R., W. Va.) charged that Government grain buying had forced prices up and purchases for Europe should be reduced. The Government, he declared, "must stop bidding against the American consumer."

Among religious leaders who gave their approval of the campaign yesterday was the Most Rev. John T. McNicholas, Archbishop

Red Navy Patrols Stop Romanians' Flight to Turkey

Istanbul, Turkey, Oct. 12 (AP).—Russian naval patrols along the Romanian and Bulgarian coastlines have cut off the flow of political refugees across the Black Sea to Turkey, it was reported tonight.

Small, heavily armed Soviet vessels have sunk two ships carrying Romanians attempting to flee their homeland, it was said.

The Bulgarians are said to have reinforced their border patrols, so flight by land virtually is impossible. The Bulgars announced a week ago their guards had killed nine men trying to cross into Turkish Thrace.

Two Romanian army officers landed in the militarized area near Istanbul yesterday after a flight in a small plane.

Through Eye of Hurricane

By V. W. Jones

Miami, Oct. 12 (AP).—Army and Navy hurricane hunters can welcome a couple of Cuban grandmothers, a bride and groom and 32 other passengers into their ranks after a wild ride through the hurricane by a big four-engined passenger plane last night.

The Pan American Airways' DC-4, en route to Miami from Havana with 40 persons on board, 36 of them passengers, went on a hurricane-hunting jaunt entirely unintentionally and, as far as passengers are concerned, unwillingly.

Through some fault in weather information, the crew left Havana believing they would follow the storm into Miami. Instead, the big plane virtually passed through the eye of the vicious disturbance southwest of Miami. No group of air passengers ever received a wilder ride.

Seven passengers passed out cold from fright. Others dripped cold sweat, and all agreed later that prayers had been said. Mrs. Jones and I can testify to the cold sweat. We were aboard.

The group left Havana at 5:45 p. m. yesterday in a torrential downpour and sped out over the Florida Straits. They witnessed a colorful sunset above the clouds—and nosed into the storm.

The plane was tossed about like a feather. Vertical air blasts sometimes threw it straight up 1000 feet or more, sometimes dropped it sickeningly as great a distance. Lightning, brilliant and blinding flickered around the plane constantly and once a ball of St. Elmo's fire leaped across a wing.

Rain in such torrents that only the nearest of the engines could be seen flooded into the pilot's cockpit, and dripped down cabin walls. Twice the plane ran through hail and the sound was like wings being torn off.

The wildly bucking and weaving plane twisted so that the cabin door flew open. Steward F. S. Yado unbuckled his safety belt and held Stewardess A. A. Brady, who caught the door and pulled it shut again. So wild was the ride that to unbuckle one's safety belt was to invite a tossing from end to end of the cabin.

Capt. L. R. Shaw and Co-Pilot Hal Wildman found Miami and

Distilleries Face Suits If They Close

San Francisco, Oct. 12 (AP).—The AFL Distillery Workers Union today made a new appeal to President Truman against a proposed two-months shutdown of whisky plants in the food conservation program, and threatened employers with damage suits if the plan is carried through.

Approximately 40 big distillers across the Nation were put on notice in separate telegrams that if the two months shutdown was started, the union would:

1. Sue employers for damages under the Taft-Hartley Labor Management Relations Act for violation of contract.
2. Demand from the employers that they give workers "standby pay."
3. Take injunction action in the courts to stop the proposed shutdown.

Joseph O'Neill, general president of the Distillers, Rectifying and Wine Workers, also sent a new batch of telegrams to the President, to Chairman Charles Luckman of the Citizens Food Committee, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, declaring that the shutdown would "not result in any significant contribution to the national food conservation program."

Instead, O'Neill said, "thousands of American workers and their families in this and related industries will be deprived of their livelihood and will thereby be required to make a needless and meaningless sacrifice."

The union urged President Truman to call an immediate joint conference between representatives of the industry and the union, with Luckman's committee.

O'Neill said the shutdown proposal was made without consultation with the workers' representatives.

The telegrams and the unions' plans were made known at a news conference by O'Neill and the union attorney, Joseph M. Jacobs of Chicago.

The union asked President Truman to bring Schwellenbach into the picture to look after the interests of wage earners in the food program.

3 on Burning Craft Saved Just in Time

Provincetown, Mass., Oct. 12 (AP).—Two men and a boy were rescued from a burning fishing dragger three miles off this port today, less than an hour before it burned almost to the water line and sank.

Philip C. Silva of Quincy, owner of the dragger Billie Boy, said he was taking the vessel from Provincetown to Quincy to put her up for the winter, when the engine backfired and ignited waste.

Freak Storm Floods Miami, Swirls to Sea

Everglades Farm District Damage Called Disaster

Miami, Fla., Oct. 12 (AP).—A small, freakish hurricane left southeast Florida under the highest floodwater in 30 years before its center swirled out into the Atlantic today, chased by Army and Navy aerial hurricane trackers.

Damage from 71-mile winds was minor but hundreds of homes were isolated around Miami and Fort Lauderdale by record-breaking downpours. Nathan Mayo, State agricultural commissioner, said, "the greatest agriculture disaster in more than a generation" had resulted from the torrents dumped on the rich Everglades farming district around Lake Okeechobee, already swollen by two previous storms and almost daily rains.

Red Cross Workers Killed

Two American Red Cross ambulance volunteers were killed today when the mercy vehicle with which they planned to evacuate flood victims rammed a utility pole.

Mass evacuations were carried out in the Hialeah and Miami Springs sections of the Miami area as some 5.01 inches poured upon the area during the storm at a rate as high as 1.34 inches in 10 minutes. Most of it fell within a few hours.

Fort Lauderdale, 23 miles north of Miami, had three feet of water in parts of its business district and losses due to flood was reported high. Davie, a smaller community to the west of Fort Lauderdale, was flooded to rooftops in some instances and five feet or more in some sections.

The storm center was at sea some 50 miles to the northeast of

Washington Girl Falls 90 Feet, Directs Rescuers

A 21-year-old Washington girl fell 90 feet from top of Crescent Rock in Shenandoah National Park yesterday but remained calm enough to direct rescuers despite a broken arm.

The girl, Miss Mary Murphy, 4854 MacArthur blvd. nw., an Army Map Service librarian, after falling, directed a team of forest rangers to her rescue.

"She was the pluckiest girl I've ever seen," Chief Forest Ranger Forest Gibbs said.

Her sister, Miss Ethel Murphy, who lives with her at the MacArthur blvd. address, was sitting atop the rock with her at the time, he said.

Right Hand Paralyzed

Girl, 13, Fondles Rattlesnake After Her Faith 'Recovery'

Stone Creek, Va., Oct. 12 (UP).—Thirteen-year-old Fay Nolan, her right hand still blue and paralyzed after a "miraculous" recovery from snakebite and gangrene, today fondled the rattlesnake which bit her while 6000 persons watched atop little Black Top Mountain, 50 feet inside Kentucky.

More than 80 members of the snake-handling faith healers' cult gathered on the mountain top for five and one-half hours of preaching, climaxed when they wrapped 17 rattlesnakes and copperheads around their necks, twined them through their hair and put them inside their clothing.

The child, bitten last month at a similar meeting, returned to "vanquish" the snake which poisoned her. When gangrene infected her swollen hand, her parents whisked her away from their home in the cult's temple at Cawood, Ky., and hid her from doctors for a recovery on faith alone.

Fay said she had no feeling in her right hand, which was drawn and blue with two red marks at the base of her thumb where the fangs struck. She was unable to move it, and used her left hand to caress two baby rattlers and the large one which bit her.

Half a dozen Virginia highway patrolmen arrived to enforce the State's anti-snake handling law, but the cultists stepped over into Kentucky. Kentucky highway patrolmen merely directed traffic as hundreds of cars parked for a mile and a half on either side of the border.

Raymond Hayes, a Cumberland, Ky., cult leader, played a flaming blowtorch slowly over his face and arms to prove his faith. Other cultists lit bits of paper from the flame as it splashed against his skin.

Hayes said it didn't hurt.

O Calls For Greater Production

Murray Proposes New System of Teamwork for Labor and Industry

Boston, Oct. 12 (AP).—The CIO said today America and the world need "production, production, more production" and proposed a new system of labor-management teamwork to bring it about.

President Philip Murray made the proposal in his annual report as the CIO prepared to open its ninth convention here Monday.

Murray said a joint effort for teamwork "can greatly strengthen the forces of democracy throughout the world."

In that connection, United States foreign policy took on new interest for the CIO convention today when Secretary of State George Marshall accepted an invitation to address the delegates Wednesday.

Tonight CIO leaders attached the utmost importance to Marshall's apperance. There was no official comment, but one official said privately, "it will have an important impact on the workers of the world." Another remarked, "it is an overwhelming CIO rejection of the Communist fiction that Marshall is a tool of Wall Street."

Meantime, two more CIO unions announced they will file non-Communist affidavits in order to qualify to start cases before the National Labor Relations Board. They are the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the Shipbuilding Workers. Four CIO unions already have filed.

Invites Industry

Murray invited industry to join in creating "national industrial councils" in various industries to achieve "production teamwork." . .

He asked industry and the "business-dominated Congress" to do their part and "we will see a production outflow which will exceed even that of the record war years."

Industry's part, he said, would be to reduce prices and expand the productive capacity of vital industries.

Murray said further that if busi-

AFL Political League Seeks 30 Million Votes

San Francisco, Oct. 12 (UP).—AFL President William Green said today that the new political league of the AFL will attempt to swing 30 million claimed labor votes to defeat Congressmen who supported the Taft-Hartley Act, but he doubted the AFL would indorse a presidential candidate in 1948.

Green said that "Labor's Educational and Political League" to be established next week by the AFL's sixty-sixth convention "will definitely be against every member of Congress who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act."

"I don't believe we will go so far as to indorse a candidate for President because that might appear to be approval of the party," he said. "If we do . . ." he paused, then smilingly, "it won't be Senator Taft."

Short of Indorsement

In a preview of the AFL's precedent-breaking political action program, Green charted a course that would stop short of presidential indorsements similar to those made by the CIO's Political Action Committee and President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. CIO-PAC and Whitney are already virtually committed for the Democratic candidate in 1948.

Two reasons for AFL reluctance to indorse a presidential nominee are William (Big Bill) Hutcheson, president of the Carpenters, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. For many

U. S. Begins Broad Probe Of Lobbyists

Kaufman Expected To Check Activities Of Unregistered 'Active Influences'

An exhaustive investigation of Washington lobbying was launched by the Department of Justice last week.

The imminence of such an inquiry has been reported persistently in political circles. It is aimed at determining whether all lobbyists are working openly and above board in compliance with the Lobbying Act of 1946, which requires that lobbyists register with the clerks of the Senate and House.

Thousands have registered, but some officials have made no secret of their suspicion that while all of the "small fry" have complied with the law, some of the most active influences on legislation have not.

Special Staff Recruited

Confirmation that the investigation is under way was obtained when it was learned that a special staff is being recruited to work on it. Last Tuesday Attorney General Tom C. Clark announced the appointment of Irving R. Kaufman, New York attorney and former assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, as special assistant attorney general to handle "special legal matters."

Clark denied informally at the time that Kaufman was to head a lobbying investigation, but it has since been ascertained that Kaufman is recruiting a staff for this work.

Kaufman has been unavailable to reporters since his appointment, but this, as well as the Attorney General's denial, is understandable in view of the long-established practice of withholding announcement of such an investigation until it is well under way or completed.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, which presumably will participate, never reveals the subject of an investigation while it is pending.

Real Estate "Lobby" Hit

The inquiry is believed to have resulted from President Truman's dissatisfaction with the type of weakened rent-control legislation which he had to sign in June, when Congress told him it was "this or nothing." In signing the measure the President condemned the real estate "lobby," which he charged was responsible for the watering-down of rent controls.

Subsequently, in the Howard Hughes investigation before the Senate War Investigating committee, Hughes charged that Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) chairman of the committee, was under the influence of a Pan American Airways "lobby." Senator Brewster asked Clark to investigate this charge and the Attorney General promised to do so when the committee completes its investigation.

2 Italian Areas Vote to Become Part of France

Tende, Oct. 12 (AP).—Residents of the Brega and Tende districts along the French-Italian border voted overwhelmingly today to become part of France.

The Italian peace treaty awarded the districts to France. However, the French constitution forbids the acquisition of territory without the consent of its inhabitants.

Of 2845 votes cast, only 218 voted against becoming French citizens, official returns revealed. Officials said there were few abstentions.

The districts are valuable because of their hydro-electric plants.

The Post Poll

85% in D. C. Area Favor Uniform U. S. Divorce Law

(Individual expressions of opinion on Page 7.)

Eighty-five per cent of those Greater Washington residents polled agreed that divorce laws should be uniform all over the country. Only 9 per cent are opposed to this. The remainder have no opinion on this question.

Of those favoring uniform divorce laws, 41 per cent think it should be easy to get a divorce; exactly the same percentage believe divorce should be difficult to obtain. Others are middle-of-the roaders and some think that the circumstances should decide the difficulty. Others are undecided.

These findings of The Washington Post Poll are based on interviews with a representative cross-section of adults living in the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia.

Post Pollers asked:

"Divorce laws differ widely from one State to another. Would you favor or oppose a law making divorce laws the same all over the country?"

Local residents replied:

Favor a uniform divorce law	85%
Opposed	9
Undecided	6

Asked the reason for their opinion, those favoring a uniform divorce law stated:

Divorce laws should be standard throughout the country	47%
It would prevent running from State to State to obtain a divorce	35
To prevent exploitation by States with easy divorce laws	9
It would be fairer to people with less money	9
Other reasons	5
No reason given	6

Cite States' Rights

Of those opposed to a uniform divorce law, 31 per cent think it would be a violation of States' rights; 25 per cent say the law should take into account regional differences of custom; 17 per cent believe things work out all right as they are, and the remainder give a variety of other reasons.

When it comes to the question of what kind of divorce laws the country should have, there is far less agreement. Washingtonians were asked:

"There has been a lot of talk

Syrian Troops Reach Border At Two Points on Maneuvers

Jerusalem, Oct. 12 (UP).—Syrian troops on maneuvers have arrived at the Palestine border at two points north of the Sea of Galilee, Jewish underground reports from reinforced border settlements said tonight.

One report from Kefer Giladi said a group of Syrian troops was seen maneuvering on the opposite side of the frontier during the day. A message from the Jewish settlement of Deganiya, on the north shore of the Sea of Galilee, said another Arab force arrived there at dusk.

The troops are part of a reported 10,000 men ordered to the frontier by the Syrian government to guard against the possibility of the Jewish underground seizing power in Palestine when the British withdrew.

Another 1500 Lebanese troops also were reported camped on the northern Palestine frontier but no reports of Lebanese troop movements have been received.

Headquarters of the Jewish underground army Hagana in Tel Aviv confirmed that its forces in the northern border area had sighted the Syrians, but a Hagana spokesman said the maneuvers were only a part of the "war of nerves" started against the Jewish community by the Arab League Council meeting last week in Lebanon.

However, Hagana ordered all its Jewish settlement guards as far inland as central Palestine alerted on a precautionary stand-to as a result of sighting the Arab troops across the frontier.

One unconfirmed report from Haifa said that 100 sheiks and Arab elders from north Palestine had gone to the border for a war conference with the exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin el Husseini, who stayed on the Syrian side and did not enter Palestine because he is wanted by the British.

This account said that the Mufti reassured the sheiks they would gain control over the Holy Land despite all opposition because "God has promised this land to your sons and your grandsons."

Mrs. Goldie Mayerson, head of the political department of the Jewish Agency, said the Arab troop movements were "calculated

Woman Fatally Hurt by Truck Is 58th D. C. Traffic Victim

District traffic deaths this year	58
Traffic deaths this date last year	46
Total traffic deaths last year	72

A 25-year-old woman died of internal injuries early yesterday after she had been struck by a truck while crossing an alley in the 1800 block of 18th st. nw.

She was Miss Nanette G. King of 1818 Kalorama rd. nw., the District's fifty-eighth traffic victim of the year.

Police identified the driver of the truck as Frank A. Teneyck, 22, of 1639 Vermont ave. nw.

According to police, Teneyck drove south on 18th st., turned east into the alley and struck Miss King as she crossed the alley. Teneyck failed to stop, police said.

Miss King was pronounced dead at the scene at 2:25 a. m. by Dr. S. K. Pridgen of the Emergency Hospital staff. Dr. Richard M. Rosenberg, deputy coroner, performed an autopsy later which showed the woman had died of internal injuries.

Teneyck was arrested 45 minutes after the accident in the 1700 block of S st. nw.

He was charged with leaving after colliding and was ordered held for action of the coroner.

In another accident classified by police as hit-and-run, four persons standing on a streetcar loading platform at Benning rd. and Oklahoma ave. ne., were injured. The vehicle involved, a truck, sped from the scene. The driver has not been apprehended.

Injured were Daniel Eskridge, 79, of 1418 T st. nw., who is at Gallinger Hospital in fair condition with head injuries; Walter Thomas, 38, of 66 I st. nw., who was admitted to Gallinger in fair condition with lacerations of the back and head, internal injuries and a possible skull fracture;

U. S. Stand On Palestine Is Praised

Henry Morgenthau, jr., former Secretary of the Treasury and chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, and Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, chief of the United States Air Materiel Command, yesterday hailed this country's stand in favor of partition of Palestine.

Addressing more than 2000 delegates to a conference of the United Palestine Appeal at Hotel Shoreham, Morgenthau called on United Nations delegates to read the "magnificent" committee statement and then vote yes. He warned, however, that "there's many a slip between the cup and the lip" and added:

"We can't count success until the last vote is counted."

McNarney, former United States commander in Europe, expressed the view that the report of the U. N. Special Committee on Palestine may mean "the beginning of a new deal for the Jewish people."

The UPA adopted a resolution expressing its "profound appreciation" of the stand taken by the United States. It praised President Truman and Secretary of State George C. Marshall for "their vigorous and invaluable support for the realization and fulfillment of the aspirations of the Jewish people for statehood and national rebirth."

On Saturday at Lake Success, Herschel V. Johnson, the United States representative on the Palestine Committee, indorsed a committee proposal for partition of Palestine into two independent states, one Jewish and the other Arab.

Morgenthau told the delegates the drive for 170 million dollars is lagging in a "great many cities" and the "worst place of all is New York City." Meantime, he added, the Jewish Agency has been hampered by inadequate funds and hundreds of Palestine refugees have become "discouraged" because of failure to meet resettlement and housing promises.

McNarney, referring to conclusions reached as a result of his own experience in Europe, warned that "short of extermination, a majority of the Jews in Europe will, legally or illegally, eventually find their way to Palestine."

A full solution to the problem, he contended, can be found "only through resettlement, and this action must be taken in the near future."

In an address at morning sessions, Robert R. Nathan, economist who prepared a two-year study on the economic potentialities of Palestine, held that "prospects are now most favorable for the partition of Palestine into a Jewish state and an Arab state." At the same time he expressed the "conviction that a million Jewish immigrants can be absorbed in that area in the next 10 years."

Qualified Red Support Of Partition Is Reported

Russia Expected To Tell U. N. She Prefers Single Holy Land State

By Robert Manning

Lake Success, N. Y., Oct. 12 (UP).—A source close to the Soviet delegation said tonight Russia would give its qualified support to the partition of Palestine as a "second-best" road to a United Nations settlement of the Holy Land issue.

Russia was expected to tell the United Nations General Assembly—probably tomorrow—that it prefers a single federated Palestine state instead of partition into separate Arab and Jewish countries.

The source said, however, that the Russians were ready to follow on a qualified basis in the path chosen by the United States yesterday when it announced support for the principle of Palestine partition and promised to help the U. N. settle problems of internal law and order, economics and finances in the Holy Land.

Will Be Conclusive

Russia's verdict on partition, awaited almost as eagerly as was the momentous American statement of yesterday, will show conclusively whether the 57 United Nations at this session will be able to approve, at least in principle, the division of Palestine.

Combined American and Soviet support for the principle, even if both leave open the questions of enforcement, probably would be enough to guarantee formal U. N. approval of the idea at this session. This would be done in the face of warnings by the angry Arab states that they will fight any attempt to enforce partition on the Holy Land.

In the boiling Balkans fight, meanwhile, the western countries cooked up a new defeat for Russia and prepared to bring to an end the long and bitter debate over U. N. peace-keeping measures in southern Europe.

Confident of Rejection

American and British officials predicted confidently that tomorrow's session of the Assembly political and Security Committee would overwhelmingly reject Russia's proposals for settling the issue.

The Soviet plan, aimed at the heart of the Truman doctrine, would have the U. N. order all American and British military forces out of Greece and clamp U. N. controls over foreign economic aid to the Greek government.

Defeat of this resolution was necessary to consolidate the West's success in getting the committee to establish an 11-nation Balkans border watch and to declare in oblique language that Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia had a hand in the Greek trouble.

Just how conclusive that victory was has become the object of considerable behind-the-scenes debate

Action Urged Here For Price Control

Aubrey Williams Declares at Meeting Cogress Must Move to Conserve Food

Restoration of rationing and price controls by Congress is the answer to present world food shortages, Aubrey Williams, former National Youth Administrator, said yesterday.

Williams, New Dealer, now editor of the Southern Farmer, is chairman of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare Committee for Alabama. He spoke at a meeting here of a conference-affiliated committee organizing a campaign for restoration of price controls. The meeting held at Friendship House, 619 D st. se., launched a proposed series of similar sessions throughout the city. Yesterday's meeting was for southern Washington representatives.

President Truman was wrong in suggesting voluntary food controls, Williams said. The country, he declared, must have rules set up by its board of directors, Congress.

The aim of rationing is to provide equal sharing with the world, he said; therefore we have to restore rationing all along the line and implement it with price controls.

A four-point "consumer program" was described by Donald Rothenberg, southeast area organizer for the Washington Committee on Consumer Protection.

The program calls for: Immediate restoration of price controls, rationing of scarce commodities, allocation of foods to manufacturers, and elimination of restrictive taxes on such articles as margarine.

"The campaign should not be carried on against the retailer, but with him," Rothenberg said. "We are both suffering from high prices.

"We are trying to work up a ground swell for price control," he told the southeast Washington campaign leaders, and outlined plans for putting the campaign into effect.

The plans include urging retail grocers to place signs in their windows asking for price control, holding of meetings in various sections, and a "price control week" to be held at some future date.

of Cincinnati and chairman of the National Catholic Welfare Conference's administrative board. He expressed confidence the people would respond to the appeal for voluntary rationing.

Need Is Appalling

"From all sides," he said, "we have information that their (Europeans') need is really appalling, and that preparation must begin now if relief is to be effective during the bitter winter ahead. Every good human instinct tells us that we simply cannot ignore their misery as none of our concern. Our sense of Christian charity allows us no alternative.

"In the past our people have given edifying proof that their realization of the need is keen and that the roots of their charity are deep. They will respond wholeheartedly, I am confident, to the noble appeal of our President so that this Nation, abundantly blessed by Almighty God, may acquit itself generously to the high duty and opportunity which in the providence of God are given to it in these distressful days."

Sent to Luckman

His statement was forwarded to Luckman by the Right Rev. Msgr. Howard J. Carroll, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, who simultaneously sent a letter from the Most Rev. Joseph E. Ritter, Archbishop of St. Louis.

The letter declared:

"Millions in Europe and Asia face starvation this winter unless immediate help and food be given them. Our President has made an urgent plea for us for assistance to our brothers in Christ in other lands, and out of the goodness of our hearts, we cannot but heed his plea.

"We heartily indorse the food conservation program proposed by President Truman and we are fully confident that our Catholic people, religious and laity, will cooperate in following the suggestions made to save food so that grain and other supplies may immediately be placed at the disposal of our Government to help the starving millions."

Pastors and other officials of the Presbyterian Church were asked to enlist the support of their members by Dr. William Borrow Pugh, stated clerk of the General Assembly. At Philadelphia, Dr. Pugh said aid to Europe was "as much a religious duty as a political and economic measure."

Mrs. Abram Orlow of Philadelphia, president of the Women's Supreme Council of B'nai B'rith, telegraphed Luckman and Mr. Truman that she was asking women in B'nai B'rith chapters throughout the country to give total support to the campaign. She said she believed "this program of individual self-denial gives to each American a democratic, personal responsibility for the success of this relief program."

Reports from Chicago showed that the first week of increased margins on grain futures had resulted in no decrease in price. In fact, prices were higher than before the increase, though volume of trading was off and trading was more orderly.

Margins were raised to 33 1/3 of full price last Tuesday after a request by President Truman. Considerable debate between Board of Trade officials and Government preceded the increase, during which traders predicted prices would not be influenced.

Poultryless Days Protested by Grower

Exeter, N. H., Oct. 12 (AP).—A protest against "poultryless Thursdays" was lodged today with the House Agriculture Committee as it opened a Nation-wide "grass roots" tour to get farmers' ideas about future agricultural policy.

Andrew Christie, Kingston, N. H., poultryman, told the committee that President Truman's food conservation program is having a "disastrous effect' 'on New Hampshire's poultry industry.

The 14-member committee opened its tour with calls upon farmers in New Hampshire's poultry and apple country.

The first call was made upon Christie at his poultry house. He told the group that storage facilities now are "bulging with poultry" and that broiler growers are canceling orders for chicks, asserting that poultryless days are reducing their own orders for broilers.

Recipes for Spareribs, Fish Given in Food-Saving Drive

Oven-fried fish, roast pork spareribs and a pantry casserole are the main dishes the Citizens Food Committee recommends for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

In a statement yesterday, it supplied recipes and said these dishes are nutritional and shouldn't cost much. The recipes:

Oven-Fried Fish

1½ pounds fish fillets; fresh or frozen.

1 teaspoon salt

¾ cup milk or water

¾ cup bread crumbs

3 tablespoons fat, melted

Cut fillets into serving-size portions. Add salt to the milk and mix. Dip the fish in the milk and roll in crumbs, place in well-greased baking pan. Sprinkle each with melted fat. Bake in hot oven (500 degrees Fahrenheit) 10 to 12 minutes or in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 minutes until fish is brown and flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Roast Pork Spareribs

2 to 3 pounds spareribs (for four to five people). Salt and pepper.

Arrange ribs in a shallow pan and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Roast in moderate oven about an hour until well done and browned. Serve while hot.

Pantry Casserole

2 to 3 cups cooked macaroni or alternate such as coarse hominy, spaghetti, noodles, rice or whatever is on hand.

½ pound cheese, shaved thin (2 cups).

4 tablespoons flour.

2 cups milk.

Make a sauce of fat, flour, salt and milk. Add cheese, stir until it melts. Pour over cooked macaroni, spaghetti, coarse hominy, noodles or rice in a baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes.

Rat Drive Set To Conserve Food

Flint, Mich., Oct. 12 (AP).—The Army and Navy Union will launch a Nation-wide rat-catching drive, complete with cash prizes, as its contribution to President Truman's food conservation program.

To keep the count straight, the rats must be taken to a local county clerk's office, where a receipt will be made out stating the date and time of day of each kill. The drive will be directed by Capt. George H. Maines of Flint, head of the Army and Navy Union's food conservation committee.

It's Christian Duty to Aid World Relief, Minister Says

Christians' duty to aid suffering Europe was stressed yesterday by the Rev. Ralph W. Loew, as Lutheran churches of the Greater Washington area launched a world relief drive.

Speaking at Reformation Lutheran Church, 212 East Capitol st., of which he was formerly co-pastor, Mr. Loew urged Christians not to adopt a holier-than-thou attitude in sending relief abroad.

As important as world relief is, said Mr. Loew, "we are just kidding ourselves in thinking that we are holding the world together just by doing that alone."

"I suppose that the politicians have to worry about how many bushels we send, but it is the responsibility of the Christian church to keep the moral tone so high that we never forget that where there is suffering in the world, it is our suffering."

Mr. Loew said that when he attended the World Lutheran Conference this summer at Lund, Sweden, as a delegate from the United Lutheran Church in America, he "didn't find anyone who disliked America because of what we have, but did find those who disliked us because we think we are better than they are because of what we have."

Mr. Loew is now pastor of Buffalo's Holy Trinity Lutheran Church.

Reformation Church was one of the many Lutheran churches that received contributions of food, clothing and other articles yesterday and which will be open all this week to accept relief supplies. The goal is at least a freight carload to send to the Lutheran World Relief depot at Easton, Pa. Lutheran officials of local business firms have donated trucks to convey the relief goods from churches to the freight yards.

Leaders Lash French Reds' Russian Ties

By Walter Kerr

Paris, Oct. 12 (NYHT).—French political leaders, from the veteran Socialist leader, Leon Blum, to Gen. Charles de Gaulle, turned on the Communist Party today in a savage pre-election campaign.

All of them accused it of abandoning the interests of France to the advantage of the foreign policy of the Soviet Union.

In Algiers, General de Gaulle, back in North Africa for the first time since the war, told a crowd of 30,000 that the Russian policy was contrary to the requirements of French security.

In Angouleme, Blum told the Communists they could expect a fight to the finish.

Under Orders, Blum Says

"I am convinced," he said, "that the Communists do not believe what they write each day. But that is precisely the trouble. They have taken this position (that the world is divided into two blocs) because they were ordered to take it.

"Their submission is serious, and the nature of the order transmtted to them (by Moscow) is more serious still. For this means that the Soviet Union is trying to drag into its camp all the democracies of Europe, that it will not draw back; that it will go on right to the destruction of Socialist Parties.

"They are trying to isolate us into groups. They wrongly imagine that some of us can be persuaded to unite with them. But that would mean absorption by the Communist Party.

"We shall not let them do that."

De Gaulle Blasts Reds

General de Gaulle, no friend of Blum, but a more violent opponent of French Communists, continued the anti-Soviet campaign that he has been waging. Municipal elections begin next Sunday. Most of the votes which his movement will obtain will come from his anti-Communist stand.

Russia, he told his Algerian audience, profited by the defeat of Germany to establish its domination over two thirds of Europe. Then, recalling the Communist manifesto signed by nine European Communist parties, including the French party, he said.

"And now, the height of insolence, they say they are nothing but the delegates of this foreign enterprise that wants to absorb France."

French Economic Collapse Expected to Come This Week

A French economic crisis now seems certain, in the opinion of American diplomatic officials, to catch the United States in the position of doing too little too late.

The break may come this week.

Officials continued over the weekend their efforts to find some way of providing the French with enough emergency dollars to avoid a threatened stoppage of all French dollar purchases of wheat, fats and coal, virtually on the eve of French municipal elections.

Informants, who withheld use of their names, told a reporter the outlook for doing this was bleak and the best which could be hoped for might be an arrangement to keep a minimum quantity of supplies moving.

There was some hope, for example, that certain unspent reconstruction credits held for France by the Export-Import Bank might be diverted to the immediate industrial purpose of supplying coal to the French.

Strikes Add Difficulties

France has told the State Department that it will run out of dollars for badly needed wheat, coal and fats purchases about October 15, three or four days before the elections set for next Sunday. A wave of strikes has struck the nation.

The whole situation is understood to have been brought to the attention of President Truman, together with an estimate of its possible political effects. France is one of the key western countries in which the Communists are centering their fight on the Marshall European Aid Plan. The other is Italy.

Diplomatic authorities here are reported to be concerned not so much over the possibilities of substantial gains in Communist strength as over what they conceive to be the possible weakening of the "moderate" French political forces now in power by inroads of both Communists and the new political movement led by Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Russians May Send Wheat

Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett has denied that French Foreign Minister Bidault had urged the United States to make a new shipment of wheat to France immediately before the elections. But it is no secret that the present French government is the kind of non-Communist, internationally cooperative administration which, privately, officials here like to see in power.

The latest expression of Washington's intentions came from President Truman, who said recently that the Government was taking all possible steps to help France. But he said no specific way had been found to supply dollars immediately.

One informant added that whatever this Government finally does about the situation, it probably would act without dramatic effect or good timing. By contrast, he said, the French Communists have been making political capital out of the fact that Russia might be able to barter some wheat to France out of Soviet surplus supplies,

Paris Subway Wildcat Strike Gains Backing of Communists

Paris, Oct. 12 (AP).—A wildcat strike of motormen on the Paris subway system continued to dislocate the city's transportation today.

It is now so successful that the General Confederation of Labor, whose leadership is dominated by the Communist Party, and the Communist Party itself, have stopped their attempt to fight it, and may lead it tomorrow into a wider stoppage.

Communist cannot allow themselves to be outflanked by more active leaders.

First the General Confederation of Labor objected to the walkout of 1200 of 1800 conductors. Now it threatens to call a general transport strike involving all subway workers, bus operators and taxi drivers if its demands are not met by tomorrow night.

Surplus for Aid

Give Europe Ships, Says Brewster

Senator Brewster (R., Me.) said yesterday he would move to save "several billion dollars" under the Marshall Plan by turning over surplus American ships to needy European countries.

He pointed out that the 16-nation Marshall Plan report called for construction of 22 million tons of shipping, while "not less than 20 million tons" of surplus vessels were "tied up and rusting away" here.

"It would cost us practically nothing," he declared, "to turn them over as part of any rehabilitation plan."

He added that he would offer his proposal as an amendment to any legislation for long-range aid to Europe which is considered in Congress.

Saving in Steel Seen

Most of the ships European nations propose to build, Brewster said, "must be built from steel which is the critically short item both in this country and in the world. Instead of lending them dollars or steel, I see no reason why we should not use surplus ships now rusting away."

He said England, France, Holland, Italy, Norway, Sweden and Greece among them carried more than half the world's ocean tonnage before the war.

"It undoubtedly is true," he said, "that these nations would much prefer dollars and steel to build new and faster ships. But these surplus ships were good and fast enough to help win the war, and they should be a big help to nations that are short of steel and labor."

Little Opposition

He foresaw little opposition to his proposal from American shipping interests who "also want new and faster ships." Britain at present, he declared, has two million tons of ships under construction "with which they hope to put us out of the shipping business."

The Senator said the United States spent about 20 billion dollars during the war building 40 million tons of merchant ships. He stated the 20 million tons which could now be made available to aid in rehabilitating Europe might save nearly 10 billion dollars in the long-range program.

Officials here were known to feel that immediate aid to Europe would be speeded and its cost materially lessened if supplies, particularly coal, could be carried in ships of the receiving countries.

Freight costs more than double the price of coal from New York to Atlantic ports in Europe, a situation for which no remedy was seen as long as only American vessels were available.

Marshall Plan Comment

Comment on the Marshall Plan came from another congressional source yesterday when Senator Capper (R., Kans.) said in a Topeka address that it would be considered "pretty carefully" by Congress.

"What it would do to domestic prices," he said, "the degree and extent of what seems to be the inevitable inflation that would result; what it would require in the way of Government controls, rationing and price fixing—all these factors ought to be made perfectly plain."

Moscow Radio Lists 2 Border Incidents Within 3 Weeks

London, Oct. 12 (AP).—The Moscow radio quoted a Greek "democratic army" (guerilla) broadcast tonight as saying Turkish frontier guards had fired on Greek guerillas twice in the past three weeks.

The broadcast did not mention casualties. It said the incidents occurred September 20 and October 1 in the same frontier district.

Sophoulis Reported Set To Crush Guerillas

Athens, Oct. 12 (INS).—Greek Premier Themistocles Sophoulis will announce tomorrow night that the "state has decided to crush the rebellion" of the guerillas unless they end their insurrection immediately.

The disclosure by the Athens News Agency coincided with reports from Salonika that the guerillas are feverishly constructing landing fields and small airports on the Greek side of the Greco-Albanian border.

According to the agency, the Premier will announce that the Greek government still offers unconditional amnesty to guerillas who surrender.

The amnesty offer expires tomorrow but the cabinet reportedly will consider the question of extending it.

The agency said Sophoulis also will announce new measures to balance the budget and underline the need for new economies and taxes.

Bowles Heads U. N. Group to Aid Children

Lake Success, N. Y., Oct. 12 (INS). Chester Bowles, former United States Director of Economic Stabilization and of OPA, has been appointed chairman of the International Advisory Committee for the United Nations Appeal for Children—victims of war and famine.

The appointment of Bowles, was announced today by Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the United Nations.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, and Mme. Irene Joliet-Curie, French scientist, are among world leaders who are members of this voluntary committee.

Others already appointed are Lord Rusholme, Great Britain; Count Henri Carton de Wiart, Belgium; Gaston Tessier, France; H. C. Oersted, Denmark; and Earl Benjamin, acting representative of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

Lie, in announcing the formation of the committee, said the U. N.'s appeal for children offers men and women throughout the world an opportunity to take a direct part in the work of the United Nations. He asserted:

"It is based on the most irresistible of all causes: the plight of hungry, homeless, hopeless children, innocent victims of war and famine.

29 Leap to Safety As Ship Hits Reef, 5 Listed Missing

Powell River, B. C., Oct. 12 (U.P.). Three children and two women passengers of the ship Gulf Stream apparently drowned early today when they jumped in darkness into Queen Charlotte Sound after the vessel hit Mystery Reef.

The seven other passengers and 22 crew members made the same leap safely and scrambled through heavy waves onto a large rock.

The Gulf Stream backed into the rocky reef in a stiff wind and split open its stern. The reef is 10 miles north of here.

There was no trace of the five missing passengers after they jumped.

U. S. to Put Korea Troop Issue in U. N.

Lake Success, Oct. 12 (AP).—Secretary of State Marshall will tell Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov that the United States has placed the Korean question before the United Nations Assembly and will make suggestions on troop withdrawals there, an American delegation spokesman said today.

This in effect would be a rejection of Molotov's proposal that the United States and Russia agree jointly on simultaneous withdrawal of American and Soviet forces.

McMahon Fears Atom War Danger In European Aid

New Orleans, Oct. 12 (AP).—Senator McMahon (D., Conn.), said tonight that spending American billions to aid Europe might "conceivably increase the danger of a quicker attack" on the United States with atomic bombs.

Because of this possibility, he said in a speech before the National Association of Catholic Charities, it is vital that materials useful in the making of atomic bombs be kept from Russia.

"If we find it essential for our own safety to bar the shipment from this country of essential materials," McMahon said, "it is only sensible to see to it that other countries whom we hope to save be requested to agree not to ship the same kind of articles beyond the iron curtain."

Hanson Entries Win 4 Firsts At Bethesda Pigeon Show

The Washington Post

ORIENTAL FRILL—W. T. Cunningham of Alexandria and his daughter, Diane, examine an Oriental frill pigeon, one of many entries in the National Capital Pigeon Fanciers Association show at Bethesda, Md., yesterday

Oriental Frills, Dragoons, Mookees and Hungarians preened themselves and fluffed their feathers yesterday in a display which drew quite a crowd.

Those names, incidentally, were attached to some of the 18 breeds of pigeons, which attracted more than 350 fanciers to the first annual show of the National Capital Pigeon Fanciers Association at Bethesda, Md.

Top winner was association president Elisha Hanson, at whose home, 9401 Old Georgetown rd., the show was held. His entries took first prizes in the fantail, African Owl, Oriental Frill and blondonette classes.

One of the chief attractions of the show was the Oriental Frill. This bird, which has a peacock tendency to fan out its back feathers, normally holds its head with its eyes looking backward at the fanned out tail.

The Oriental prill is a very unusual bird, all told, having been bred with a beak so short that it cannot feed its squabs. As a result, bird baby nurses have to be presed into service for such purposes.

Also represented was the Hungarian, a chesty pigeon, which looks mostly like a chicken; the dragoon, a white bird which doesn't coo but makes a noise like a trumpeter, and several breeds of Modena, a pigeon which was around before Columbus.

There also was the mookee, originally bred in India, and one of the most recent pigeon breeds to come to this country.

J. Clusman, a Baltimore breeder, was showing off a dun lace blondenete Orienal frill, which he had developed after 18 years of inbreeding. Clusman's father bred pigeons before him, and he has been in the pigeon-breeding business since 1897.

Winners in the judging for best in each class in the show were: Fantail, Elisha Hanson; turbit, James Muir of Baltimore; African owl, Elisha Hanson; nun, Norman High of Reisterstown, Md.; ice, Mrs. Arthur Hanson, Bethesda; Oriental frill, Elisha Hanson, satinette, Earl Buscher of Washington; blondenette, Elisha Hanson; komorner tumbler, Preston Nebel; modena, Lawrence L. Toms of Hagerstown; mookee, Philip Roof; tippler, Philip Roof; Norwich cropper, Lawrence Toms; pigmy pouter, R. W. Rohrer of Hagerstown; show tumbler, W. J. Schmidt, Baltimore; helmet, David Bregler, Hagerstown; Hungarian, H. D. Kline, Hagerstown; racing homer, Dr. R. C. Gale, Hagerstown, and parlor tumbler, Mrs. Louise Hanson of Bethesda.

Italians Cast 600,000 Votes in Rome

Rome, Oct. 12 (AP). — An estimated two thirds of Rome's 969,774 registered voters participated today in a city election, latest test of strength between Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democrats and political parties of the far left.

The election, second for Rome since the republic was proclaimed in mid-1946, was to fill 90 council seats. No returns were expected tonight. Only one incident was reported—a Communist-Christian Democrat scuffle. Last night a Christian Democrat youth was killed in a preelection clash.

Observers generally had agreed that a heavy vote would benefit the Christian Democrats at the expense of the better-disciplined leftists, consisting in the main of Communists and pro-Communist Socialists.

On the basis of reports from almost all the 1223 sections at 8 p. m., the Italian News Agency ANSA estimated the total vote at about 610,000.

Ballot boxes were sealed tonight, and counting was to start in the morning.

Mysterious Mexico Blast Is Reported

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 12 (AP).—An unidentified flaming object soared over the Texas-Mexico border today, smashing into the Samalayuca mountains of Mexico with a loud explosion and billows of smoke.

The impact area was estimated as less than 10 miles from the point where a V-2 rocket, off its track, crashed south of Juarez May 29.

The public relations officer at the White Sands Proving Grounds, where the V-2 rockets have been launched, said none of the missiles had been fired since October 9.

Maj. Gen. John L. Homer, Fort Bliss commander, and military officials at air fields and other installations in the Southwest, said that no guided missiles had been fired today, and no rocket planes were missing from fields in the area.

J. W. Hooten, editor of the El Paso Times, said that Guadalupe officials declared the bomb came from the direction of the United States.

Marshall Plan Currency Aid Is Proposed

London, Oct. 12 (AP).—A subcommittee of the Paris Economic Conference tonight proposed a multilateral currency exchange scheme to facilitate trade among the 16 European nations in the Marshall Plan.

It said the 16 nations, the United States and the International Monetary Fund had been invited to send representatives to a meeting in Paris Wednesday to work out details.

The group—the committee on payments agreements of the Paris Conference Financial Committee—has been meeting in London since September 22. It is an offshoot of the Paris negotiations on Secretary of State George C. Marshall's Plan for European recovery through self-help and United States aid.

The subsidiary committee recommended acceptance of a proposal for a central organization to coordinate present bilateral currency agreements in Europe so as to further trade among the Marshall Plan countries. The proposal has been submitted by Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Held Prerequisite to Plan

The "automatic transferability" of the currencies of all the countries involved would be a prerequisite to operation of the plan, the committee noted.

A "number of governments" represented, it added, also desired that, when American aid becomes available, "some part . . . should take the form of dollars which can be used . . . in making payments for goods supplied by one of the participating countries to another."

The report said the governments favoring such a provision felt that these dollars "subsequently" could be refused by the countries receiving them, including western Germany, "to cover supplies from the American Continent."

The committee indicated the provision would be offered without recommendation to the special Paris meeting.

Would Use Nation's Surplus

The committee said the recommendation for a central exchange organization and "automatic transferability" arose from a "deficiency" in the present system of bilateral agreements which tended "to hamper and distort the development of trade" among countries in the plan.

The bilateral agreements, the report noted, generally provide for settlements in gold or convertible currencies and are subject to "limited possibilities" for combination.

Pepper Asks 50 Billions For Peace

New York, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) tonight proposed a "bold and daring plan for peace" calling for total disarmament and a $50,000,000,000 United States contribution to finance a five-year program of world reconstruction.

He gave his plan a political twist by tying it in with a plea for "a new spiritual attitude, a political rebirth in our country" in which "reactionaries" would be swept out of Congress and the administration by "the progressive and truly democratic forces who believe in the principles of Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Pepper, a consistent campaigner for his own "one world" philosophy and a more "liberal" Democratic Party, spoke at a testimonial dinner given in his honor by the American Slav Congress.

Heading for Conflict

He said that the world is beyond the crossroads of peace and war and now is heading straight down the path leading to another conflict that could only end in total destruction.

"No nation can live in the illusion it will survive modern war with its atomic and biological weapons. Another war means a broke, burnt, desolate earth of the dead," he said.

Detailing his "peace plan," the Floridan said the first requirement was a one-year moratorium within the United Nations on all "name-calling and all irreconcilable issues."

"This will clear the atmosphere, giving the U. N. a chance to breathe and to gain new strength."

Handled by U. N.

His reconstruction proposal, to be handled by U. N. with funds provided by this country over a five-year period, would be coupled with a start toward world disarmament.

The United States, he said, should offer to pay U. N. 10 billion dollars a year for five years if all member nations join this country "in immediately cutting in half their present military budgets."

"Such a program would not cost the United States a dime more than we are now spending either for aid to foreign countries, or for our military establishment," he said. "For now we are giving over four billion dollars a year for foreign aid, and spending over 10 billions a year upon our military budget."

He said the United State also should propose to U. N. that all nations undertake "with real earnestness and spirit" a program of general disarmament.

Would Withdraw Forces

Further, he said, it should advocate the withdrawal of all military forces from every country, except Germany and Japan, and an embargo against any power interfering "economically, politically or otherwise in any other country."

All colonies and mandated areas should be turned over to the U. N.'s Trusteeship Council so their peoples can establish "self-government freed from foreign exploitation, dominion or intervention."

Pepper said it was "obvious" that the program could not succeed so long as "reactionaries" remain in Congress and in the Executive branch of the Government.

General Feng Seen Facing Party Purge

Nanking, Oct. 12 (AP).—A responsible official of China's ruling party, the Kuomintang, said today that Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang "very likely will be among the first purged from the party."

Feng, famed as the Christian general who once baptized his troops with a firehose, strongly criticized the party and government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in a New York press conference Friday. His comments included reference to "a dictatorship under a second Hitler."

The Kuomintang official who could not be named, noted that under new regulations all Kuomintang members must reregister, and asserted, "It is quite evident that even if Feng attempts to retain membership, he will be ousted under the 'purge directive' which denied membership to those guilty of disloyalty."

made passes at the airport, but gales and unbelievably heavy rains blanked it out time after time. Miami was circled for an hour and a half after the storm already had been fought for half an hour.

Finally the pilots fought clear and headed for Nassau, where the plane was landed for the night. But troubles were not over. After an early morning take-off with the same passengers, the plane arrived over Miami's international airport—and a landing gear signal indicated that one wheel could not be locked.

Passengers who already felt they had stared death in the face were given crash instructions while the plane circled the airport for an hour. Badly frightened, all were too weak to repeat a rousing ovation and backslapping they had awarded the pilots after the safe landing at Nassau.

Captain Shaw reported later that rain water from the wild ride of the previous night had shorted switches, causing danger signals to flash. Despite the nerve-racking preparation for a crash, the landing was smooth on runways a foot deep in places in water.

Palm Beach and moving northeastward. Its threat to the Atlantic Coast was reported to have ended.

Lieut. Comdr. D. F. Rex of the Navy Department, spokesman for the project "Cirrus," said if the storm was found to be "suitable," they will go through with the test. "The result of this will lead us to further accomplishments in efforts to break up a hurricane."

Scientists were to watch the test with intense interest since none could foretell what might happen to the hurricane when ice pellets are seeded into the storm's clouds.

An Army spokesman said the Army and Navy had 10 planes tracking the storm to study the effects of the icing, but he added:

"There aren't enough planes and pilots in the United States to reduce a hurrican's potential by 5 per cent by dropping dry ice."

Two B-17 planes left Mobile, Ala., for MacDill Field, Fla., to join a B-29 which was loaded with the dry ice particles.

Altogether 31 men were to participate in the field study, Commander Rex said.

Floodwaters stood 3 and sometimes 6 feet deep in large areas of Greater Miami and Fort Lauderdale as the storm passed out to sea.

Winds apparently did little damage as the hurricane swept across Florida from below Everglades City on the West Coast to just above Miami before passing out to sea. No casualties were reported.

Couple Saved After Drifting 8 Days in Gulf

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 12 (AP).—Gaunt from lack of food and water, a St. Petersburg, Fla., couple made port here today on the freighter John Harlan after drifting eight days aboard a small boat in the Gulf of Mexico.

Ed Van Buren, 53, retired photographic supply dealer, and his wife, 47, apparently were none the worse for their experience, but they expressed a profound distaste for sharks.

"That's all we thought about—sharks," said Van Buren. "They used to swim around the boat, waiting. There was a big one in particular that used to turn on his side and look me right in the eye. Yes, I'm going back and kill me some sharks. A lot of sharks."

The couple set out October 2 from Snead Island, Fla., to St. Petersburg in their 40-foot boat, Nancy II. Their motor went dead and for eight days they drifted with only a small store of food, water and other supplies. During that time they saw only water, one buoy and—on the last night, a plane.

"We fired a flare at the buoy," said Mrs. Van Buren. "We felt a little silly when we realized what we had done."

Duchess Weds Amid Splendor

THE DUCHESS OF MONTOR,

Sevilla, Spain, Oct. 12 (AP).—The Duchess of Montoro, 21, daughter of the wealthy Duke of Alba, was married today to the fourth son of the Duke of Sotomayor in Sevilla Cathedral.

The ceremony was witnessed by the largest gathering of the wealthy and titled of Spain since the heyday of the Spanish monarchy. However, no representative of Generalissimo Francisco Franco was at the ceremony and it was reported that Spanish newspapers had been forbidden to carry photographs or stories of the wedding beyond formal notices.

The Duke of Alba, a supporter of Don Juan, pretender to the Spanish throne, was dismissed by Franco from the Cortes, Spanish Parliament, in February, 1946.

The bridegroom was Luis Martinez Irujo y Artazcoz, 26, who served as a lieutenant in the Nationalist navy during the Spanish civil war.

He and his bride were expected to go today to one of the Alba estates in Sevilla Province, after which they will go by plane to London and sail on the Queen Mary for a honeymoon cruise to New York.

The Duke of Alba was reported to have allocated $370,000 for the wedding and festivities accompanying it.

The ceremony was already in progress before some 2000 invited guests when the crowd outside broke through a police cordon and thousands entered the cathedral, largest church in Spain.

The duchess wore jewels estimated to be worth one million dollars.

Marcelino Olaechea, Archbishop of Valencia, read the vows. He read a message cabled by Pope Pius XII wishing the couple "Christian happiness" and sending them a special apostolic blessing.

U. S. Divorce Law Favored

about the high number of divorces. When two people don't want to stay married, do you think it should be easy or hard for them to get a divorce?"

Here are the answers:

	All Groups	Men	Women
Divorce should be easy	42%	50%	35%
It should be hard	39	33	44
It should be moderately hard or easy	11	11	11
It should depend on the circumstances. (Hard when children, etc.)	4	3	5
Undecided	4	3	5

Acceptance of easy divorce is much higher among Negro residents. Sixty-nine per cent of Negroes favor easy divorce as compared with 34 per cent of white residents.

Children Make a Difference

Forty-seven per cent who have no children think marriages should dissolve easily as compared with 33 per cent with children under 3 years, and 38 per cent whose children are out of the nursery.

The 41 per cent in favor of easy divorce gave the following reasons:

There is no point in forcing unhappy people to stay together	78%
Quarreling, unhappy parents are as harmful to children, to the community, as divorced ones	8
Hard divorce won't solve the problem of the divorce rate. Marriage should be harder; people will get divorces anyway, etc.	7
The conditions of divorce should be left entirely to the individuals involved.	7
Other reasons	6

(Adds to more than 100 per cent because more than one answer was possible.)

Those who think divorce should be hard said:

Easy divorce is an evil and weakens the institution of marriage. If divorce is too easy no thought is given to the obligations of marriage; marriage is a pact before God, etc	58%
If divorce were difficult, there wouldn't be so many. People would become reconciled	27
There should be a lapse of time for cooling off; for adjustment of difficulties	9
Divorce is hard on children, retards children	10
People should be required to go to marriage counselors, to be educated to married life and sex adjustment before divorce	2
Other reasons	8

Iwo Jima Typhoon Veers

Tokyo, Oct. 12 (UP).—"Rosalind," the typhoon that buffeted Iwo Jima last week, then circled around to strike the island again has veered to the northeast and danger from high winds is over,

In this Great Capital of this Pleasant Land

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE YOUR HOME

Through the years, and especially since the war, home looks mighty good to most Americans. And here in the Nation's Capital this week, there is a tangible expression of the great popular interest in the homes of today and the building of homes for the years to come.

It is the Annual Home Show Exposition sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Washington, which is being held at the National Guard Armory through Sunday, October 19.

Griffith-Consumers is proud to have a part in this Exposition and urges all residents of the Washington area to visit the show this week. At the show you will find a wealth of ideas for home building and improvements, in the products and services of many business enterprises.

We hope you will drop in and see our exhibit, because it is your interest in better and more comfortable homes that has made possible the growth of Griffith-Consumers through half a century.

6 Voice Opinions On Divorce Laws

(Persons interviewed by The Post Poll were assured that their names and addresses would not be divulged. Opinions expressed below were obtained in spot interviews in the downtown area.)

While five of those interviewed on the street came out for uniform divorce laws throughout the country, one, Mrs. J. W. Torrence, 2805 Erie st. se., a housewife with two children, championed States' rights in this respect.

Mrs. Torrence

"Divorce laws shouldn't be the same all over the country," she said, "because there are different needs in different sections, and the people of each State know their needs better than anyone else."

Asked whether she thought it should be easy or difficult for two people to get divorced when they don't want to stay married, Mrs. Torrence declared:

"It should be just as easy to get divorced as to get married. Many can't afford to get divorced, and it must be rugged to stay together for years just because you can't afford a divorce."

* * * *

Mrs. R. E. Pedigo took a sharply different view of the subject, declaring that divorce should not only be difficult, but it should be made "impossible." When people get married, she said, "they ought to know what they are doing and take the consequences if they don't."

Mrs. Pedigo, who is married and lives at 603 9th st. ne., said she believes divorce laws should be uniform if divorce is allowed at all. "It would be better than the way it is now," she said, "with people traveling around to States where it is easier."

Mrs. Pedigo

* * * *

Harold G. Foster of the Hotel Willard, who has just come to this section to live, said he thought "what's fair for one State is fair for all." He added that he thought the same thing about traffic laws as well as divorce laws.

A former member of the Canadian army and a divorced man himself, Foster said under some circumstances, divorce may be too easy. "In my own case," he said, "I think there was not enough endeavor to rectify the situation."

Foster

Rather than having divorce made easier, he continued, he would be more in favor of having premarriage counseling made more general, and counseling after marriage as well in cases where it is needed.

At any rate, he concluded, it would be better to have uniform laws so there wouldn't be so many "framed up" divorces. Furthermore, he pointed out, some States have as many as 50 grounds for annulment.

* * * *

Miss Melba Chloe, a student at Howard University, where she lives at Frazier Hall, also believes in having the same divorce laws in every locality, she declared.

Miss Chloe

"By having the same laws in every State it would be fairer to the people concerned, and it would also make divorce easier."

Making it easier to get a divorce is a desirable end in itself, Miss Chloe said.

* * * *

"What's good for one State is good for the others," said William Best, a carpenter, 2007 O st. nw., in contending that divorce laws should be uniform in the United States. Best said this would not be a mere matter of convenience, but would also promote morality.

Best

Best also said he believed divorces should be easily obtained.

"If they can't get along together," he asked, "why prolong the agony?"

* * * *

"All divorce laws should be uniform," said Malcolm Gannett, a retired patent attorney of Fairfax County, Va. "There is no use in having them the way they are today. People just go from one State to another in order to evade the issue in their own State."

"After all," he said, "it's been proved that no two people are alike, and it's very hard to tell beforehand what's going to happen in a marriage."

Gannett

Gannett said he has been happily married for 37 years.

Denazification

The denazification program in the American occupation zone of Germany, like other programs predicated on quadripartite adherence to the Potsdam agreement, could not be carried out unilaterally. The modification of it approved the other day by General Clay was made inevitable by the general amnesty granted to nominal Nazis some time ago in the Soviet zone. No doubt the Soviet action was a bid for the affection of the German people. It was taken at a time when consultations were in progress to achieve uniform standards for denazification throughout Germany. Had the Russians desired to cooperate, it is probable that there could have been common agreement and joint action on the standards now established independently. But the Russians chose to beat the gun—no doubt in order to make American policy seem harsh by comparison. General Clay has now countered with a simplification of the American program which will let the great mass of passive Nazi followers escape with mere payment of a fine.

Apart from the obvious danger of this sort of rivalry in dealing with the Germans, the modified program seems a thoroughly sensible one, inevitable in any case now that the emphasis of American rule in Germany is being placed upon democratic reconstruction rather than upon deindustrialization. One patent benefit of the new program is that denazification will be markedly speeded; the whole process should be completed by early spring, instead of dragging on through the summer, and this, we think, will help materially in getting Germany back to work. Most of the 750,000 untried cases remaining before German denazification tribunals will be subject to no more than a fine, and trials will be dispensed with. Only those persons who were members of the organizations declared criminal at Nuremberg or who were active Nazis will still have to go before the tribunals to be judged and punished. This is a leniency which will, in our judgment, have a healing effect beneficial to Europe in general as well as to the Germans.

Local Food Committees

Since any national voluntary program is only as strong as its standing in our numerous local communities, the call of the Citizens Food Committee for mayors of more than 1000 cities to set up local food conservation groups is a logical second step in this momentous campaign. No plea from Washington can be as effective in bringing home to the people the necessity for saving food as reminders from their own neighbors. We take it for granted that the national committee will follow up its telegram to mayors by similar appeals to Governors and especially to rural counties where vast quantities of grain are being fed needlessly to livestock. Organization of the campaign on the grass-roots level may well prove to be its most important aspect.

The need for coordination of national and State efforts was sharply illustrated last week in the address made by Governor Dewey at Cornell University. Few exceptions can be taken to what Governor Dewey said, and it is probable that the program he has inaugurated in New York State will help to save food for hungry Europeans and relieve inflationary pressures. Yet it seems to us that the address lays unfortunate emphasis on improvement of the diet of the American people at a time when our national interest demands sacrifices to save our sister democracies from collapse for want of food.

To be sure, Governor Dewey acknowledged the necessity of helping Europe in the present emergency. "We all know," he said, "that hunger, chaos and dictatorship go hand in hand while an uneasy peace becomes daily more troubled. In this critical winter we can still do much to win the peace. Stark human want commands America's help." If this had been coupled with a candid indorsement of the Citizens Food Committee's voluntary program for the conservation of food, Governor Dewey's other remarks about improving the diet of the American people by wiser management of our food resources could not have been misunderstood. But he did not specifically throw his influence behind the voluntary program. Instead, he declared that while "we want to do our honest share to feed hungry people overseas . . . we have at the same time a prior and a binding obligation to see that no American is poorly fed as a bitter result of thoughtless or badly planned generosity on our part."

We hope, with Governor Dewey, that the mechanisms for improving the diet of our own people will be steadily improved. But we fear that his emphasis upon this long-range problem in the face of the present emergency in Europe may have the effect of giving many lukewarm patriots an excuse for ignoring meatless Tuesdays, poultryless Thursdays and other essential conservation measures. That would be a grave disservice to a great national cause. The least the Administration can ask is that Governors and other local officials give the campaign their positive indorsement and inaugurate such local programs as may be necessary fully to support it.

Tribute To Leadership

Nothing substantial was lost, in our opinion, when the United States accepted a British-French modification of the resolution condemning Yugoslav, Bulgarian and Albanian support of the guerilla warfare in Greece. Had the resolution been adopted as introduced by the American delegation, it would have held these three neighbors of Greece guilty of violating the Charter of the United Nations. A number of governments that are eager to use the influence of the General Assembly to curb the aggressive practices of Moscow's satellites were not willing to go that far. So the condemnation was made less direct. The Political and Security Committee of the Assembly merely took account of the condemnation of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania by the Security Council's investigating commission last spring, without specifically indorsing its findings.

The two really important actions are the committee's call upon the three Soviet stooges "to do nothing which could furnish aid and assistance" to the guerillas in Greece and the creation of a border-watch commission to determine whether this verdict of world opinion is carried out. That commission will be composed of nine different nations, with seats held open for Russia and Poland if they should reverse their present intention of boycotting it. Its findings, like those of the Security Council's Balkan inquiry commission, will undoubtedly be fair and accurate. When its reports have been made direct to the Assembly, there will be ample opportunity for further condemnation of the aggressors if their activities in support of the Greek guerillas should continue.

The soundness of this procedure is probably best measured by the violence of the Soviet protest against it. Before the vote was taken the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, Andrei Vishinsky, snarled and ranted with the recklessness of a trapped tiger. But he was able to muster only 7 votes against the resolution, while 34 delegates lined up in favor of telling Moscow's henchmen to stop fomenting civil war in Greece. The conscience of the free world has at last found a voice. More than that, the unbossed nations have initiated means by which Soviet expansionism can be halted. On this phase of the resolution 11 nations refrained from voting, but not one that is free from ideological domination by Moscow voted against this invocation of U. N. powers to check the conspiracy against Greece.

Our delegation at Lake Success has once more demonstrated that the non-Soviet world will readily follow leadership that is based on fact-finding, fairness of judgment and the objective of peace. This gives the United States a responsibility such as few other nations have ever held. At the same time it is an invitation to this country to make further use of its tremendous influence in upholding the principles of the U. N. The border-watch commission is only one of several new instruments that will be needed to check the aggressive policies that the Kremlin is pursuing. And each step will require the same firmness in adhering to principle and flexibility in working out methods that have been exemplified in meeting the current threat in the Balkans.

Hypodermic Gun

In demonstrating the new hypospray air-gun to the District Medical Society the other day, Dr. Edward B. Tuohy, professor of anesthesiology at Georgetown University School of Medicine, intimated that the medical weapon must for the present be kept secret and that use of it must in some way be restricted lest it fall into unscrupulous or incompetent hands. "Why, with this gun," he warned his fellow doctors, "someone could readily substitute poison for insulin, 'shoot' his victim by pressing the hypospray gun against him in a crowd, and walk off. The victim wouldn't know he'd been hit, but within a minute and a half he'd collapse, fatally injected." Poor Dr. Tuohy! Judging from our own experience, he is going to hear about these sentimental, humanitarian scruples of his—and in no uncertain terms—from the National Rifle Association which stands foursquare for the constitutional right of Americans to bear arms and pop one another off at will.

Why, this new hypospray gun has all the ability of the ordinary, old-fashioned pistol—plus the advantage of silence. The youngster who picks it up thinking it unloaded can blast his baby sister without even disturbing the rest of the household. Ladies can liquidate their lovers without leaving so much as a bloodstain on the carpet. The weapon is the ideal thing to have at hand when a fellow loses his temper in some quarrel with a neighbor. Obviously it ought to be on sale like automatics and revolvers at every pawnbroker's establishment to anybody not a drug addict or a known criminal who might like to have one as a playtoy. Yet Dr. Tuohy perversely and capriciously suggests that possession of these admirable gadgets be restricted to qualified medical personnel who would use them only in the healing fashion the inventor intended. The idea—and we are quite sure the National Rifle Association will agree—is as ridiculous and outrageous as our own proposal advanced some time ago that pistols be manufactured only in Government arsenals and issued only to the military and officers of the law.

Dirksen On The Job

When the facts are known, it is not surprising that Representative John Taber and Representative Everett M. Dirksen should have reached such diametrically opposite conclusions from their visits to Europe. Mr. Taber has spent most of his time skipping about from country to country. He had visited six different nations and spent only three days in Germany when he made his notorious statement about not having seen any underfed people in Europe. Mr. Dirksen, on the contrary, has spent most of his five-weeks tour in Germany. He has gone into the homes of the people and talked to them in their own language. He has visited mines and factories and seen for himself the tragic sluggishness that hunger has imposed on European workers. Consequently, he speaks as one who has seen much undernourishment and who concludes that "a decent amount of help" for Europe is imperative to prevent the establishment of a Soviet "bridgehead on the Atlantic."

What the energetic Mr. Dirksen has seen convinces him that an extra session of Congress should be called in order to grant aid to Europe as soon as possible. Apparently he is talking about congressional approval of long-range help under the Marshall Plan as well as the granting of immediate relief, for he says that niggardly aid would not restrain the growth of Sovietism and would be a waste of money. Only bold and constructive aid, according to his practical view, can preserve the atmosphere of freedom in Europe and assure the rebuilding of a strong economy through the restoration of former business channels.

Mr. Dirksen indicates that his influence will be energetically used on his return to Washington to get Congress back into session. We have long regarded such a session to be imperative, and the Administration's voluntary food-conservation program has in no way changed that view. The need for reenacting allocation powers alone would be sufficient reason for bringing Congress back. In addition, the voting of funds for emergency European relief and an early start on implementation of the Marshall Plan are the sine qua non of a forward-looking American foreign policy. By giving intelligent leadership to such a movement, Representative Dirksen will strengthen the bipartisan approach to foreign affairs and incidentally enhance his own prestige.

Latin Communism

Specifically what sort of joint Western Hemisphere action to fight communism Representative J. Parnell Thomas has in mind we can't say, though we can guess. Mr. Thomas has called for an inter-American conference of legislators to coordinate a program of unified legislation as "hemispheric insurance against what is happening in Europe." Certainly the aggressive revival of the Comintern is a threat to institutions in this hemisphere which it would be foolhardy to ignore. A decisive answer is necessary. But we venture to suggest that the answer is not to be found in laws outlawing the various Communist parties, in a grandiose scheme of loyalty tests, or in subpoenaing multitudinous witnesses—procedures of which Mr. Thomas is known to be fond.

Let us bear in mind that in Latin America our problem is totalitarianism of the Right as well as of the Left. Both stripes have the same rallying cry, viz, "Yankee imperialism." Who knows but that one of these days both might coalesce? At any rate, the Communists in South America are backing any tyranny that comes along, knowing that the reaction from tyranny is revolution and chaos, conditions from which only the Communists in these days can profit.

To blunt the appeal of communism in Latin America requires not so much repression as economic betterment. We have some concrete suggestions: (1) fair dealing in trade; the recent Cuban sugar quota was a notorious example of the opposite; (2) expand such operations as the Office of Inter-American Affairs, which promote health, education and higher living standards throughout Latin America; (3) improve our student exchange program by sending American technical experts to Latin America and inviting Latin officials to our universities; (4) steer clear of armament plans which would confirm the authority of unpopular regimes and alienate us further from the people; (5) evangelize the way of freedom through an increase in the activities of the Voice of America; tell the people of Latin America what our policy is and what our system has done and is doing for them; and keep Latin statesmen in our official confidence. We pass these ideas on to Mr. Thomas.

PIPING PLOVER

Pale, ashen-white, blended against the lonely waste of beach,
Invisible upon the pallid sand, so still, so near that should I stretch my hand
I'd all but reach your soft, blond wings—
the onyx-banded throat . . .
Do you await some message from the sea while you seek cover on the quiet shore?
Surely elsewhere
(far beyond the lapping water) waits another small, pale plover to whom you pipe your plaintive, mournful song the evening long.

Truman Menu

After hearing President Truman's radio speech and that of Mr. Charles Luckman, the newly appointed head of the Citizens Food Committee, I was impressed by the earnestness of their appeal and as a housewife was prepared to do my part to the best of my ability. After reading the White House menus, as published in The Washington Post of October 7, described as those of the first of the "no-meat days of self-denial," I am beginning to wonder.

Must the harassed housewife, struggling to feed her family nourishing meals at the least cost, be confronted by this evidence of Truman opulence? It was extremely tactless, to say the least. If these are "self-denial" meals, I am wondering what the President's family eats when they are not denying themselves.

SUBURBAN HOUSEWIFE.

A day after President Truman's moving appeal to "eat less, waste less," his own menu included a three-course luncheon and four-course dinner—three vegetables, plus fish, salad, dessert, soup or melon balls at night. How easy it would be to substitute fish or cheese for meat if one could only serve four-course meals with the substitutes!

Probably less than 1 per cent of all Americans are eating as well as the White House incumbents. The picture of Senator Taft digging into a large steak at an extravagant barbecue the same day he too urged other Americans to "eat less" is about the only parallel I know.

How about some "one-course" meals, Mr. President, like most of the rest of this country are now forced to indulge in? And I don't mean one course once a day, but three times a day. E. P.

World Trade Dollar

The adoption by the United Nations of a world trade silver dollar as an auxiliary hard currency for the international exchange of goods, or as an instrument of barter between nations, would do much to relieve the chaotic paper money, nonconvertible sterling funds and the shortage of American dollars that now form such a barrier to postwar recovery in Europe, the Far East and other parts of the globe.

There is an American precedent for the trade dollar which was used quite successfully from 1873 to 1887 in commercial transactions between the United States and China. Many millions of silver trade dollars were coined, but they were made legal tender only for a short time and in small amounts. There is no law against such a trade dollar in this country nor in many others, and American statutes authorize the United States Mint to coin money for foreign countries at practically cost. Millions of such coins are minted in this country each year.

Even those countries which have now rigid currency or exchange controls could easily adjust their regulations to the new global medium of exchange, if only on the theory of barter of standardized silver against goods. Under U. N. regulations, central government banks or other substantial financial institutions could issue certificates for silver trade dollars.

Mexico, the United States, Canada, several South American and other countries of the world produce much silver. The present price on the free markets in New York and London is just over 70 cents an ounce, although the United States Treasury is by law obligated to purchase all silver newly mined in the United States at 90.5 cents per ounce. There are billions of ounces of silver hoarded in South America, Asia and Africa, either as bullion or other forms, and if this could be used openly and legitimately as minted currency, it would quickly bring the world back to a hard-money basis. Many millions of people in South America, Europe, Asia and Africa are still so thoroughly familiar with silver coins that successful counterfeiting is practically impossible.

A U. N. trade silver dollar would discourage the world-wide black market, as small farmers, peasants and laborers in all parts of the world give their products and services for hard money which they are allowed to save or hoard, where today they prefer American cigarettes or other commodities to the worthless currency by which they have been ruthlessly swindled for several years.

Action By Congress

Your cartoon of October 1 was the best we have seen for a long time. It looks as though our political leaders in both parties value a "bowl of political pot liquor" more than their heritage of a rich and independent country.

Mr. Taft seems the only aspirant for office willing to risk anything to stop the spiral of inflation building up here. Our policy of lending money to fight communism abroad and getting it back for the necessities of life sold at inflated prices seems to be robbing Peter but not paying Paul. An appeal to the consumer to buy and eat less is wishful thinking, as they feel the example for economy should be set by our Government.

Congress will either have to stop supplying the needy or take some radical step, however unpopular, to control prices at home. Thousands of our farmers are selling their cattle and hogs half fat and two-thirds of normal weight and others are not buying animals to graze and feed because of inflated prices and uncertainty as to what our Government will do in respect to price ceilings and rationing. Since we are "Between the devil of communism abroad and the deep blue sea of inflation" at home, action by Congress seems indicated and soon.

Jobs For Handicapped

The week of October 6 was "Employ the Handicapped Week." The District of Columbia Vocational Rehabilitation Service and USES handled requests for placements, both from the handicapped seeking employment and from employers desiring to hire personnel.

Typical jobs offered the handicapped pay as much as from $18 per week, with opportunities, of course, for advancement to a "much better position"—from $25 to $30 a week! This, apparently, is the result of the drive as of the first part of last week.

Despite the experience, background or training of a handicapped person and/or the recorded statistics that indicate such personnel has higher efficiency and attendance records, and lower accident and negligence records, employers persist in the erroneous attitudes that they are getting inferior personnel which will not be capable of performing duties that any other competent person could accomplish.

How do I know and why do I feel this way? Because I am one of these and the foregoing has been my experience since I have been in Washington. The millennium of equal wages for equal accomplishments, no matter by whom accomplished, has not yet arrived.

"Lee's Command"

Your rather inconsistent editorial of October 7, "Lee's Command," is an excellent reason why the Army is not better.

A former officer has accomplished a mission almost unprecedented in American history—made an unannounced inspection of an Army installation. The resulting furor was natural since Mr. Ruark has the "effrontery" to by-pass "channels." Your contention that he spent but a few hours in Leghorn is concluded to be a "damning indictment" of irresponsible journalism. I call it a damning indictment of the Army for permitting conditions which could so readily gall the casual observer.

According to reputable publications, changes were made before and after the arrival of the inspector general in Leghorn. One would be naive to presume that they had been made voluntarily.

In the eyes of those serving, I daresay that The Washington Post editorials and Wyche reports are more detrimental to morale and respect than the efforts of the Bob Ruarks. As for recruiting—that program has failed, not because of Ruark, but because Army life has been tried and found wanting by some eight million impromptu jurists.

The perpetuation of the Army caste system has killed the enlistment program and permitted military experts to sell universal military training. Where conditions are exemplary, employes need not be shanghaied.

The idea of restoring good faith among those who know the Army intimately is worthy of more than a passing thought. In so doing, the Army would be wise to use sparingly of its deceptive vocabulary, for while the press from its objective viewpoint may miss the underlying motives—the GI from grim experience will spot the pitfalls immediately.

Individual Sacrifices

I was very much impressed with the initiative and unselfishness of the people of the 3200 block of Idaho ave., whose project for having food for Europe by foregoing meat one day a week and putting the money saved in a fund to buy CARE packages, was described in The Washington Post of October 5. In times like the present, when the Nation as a whole is asked to cooperate for a great cause, leadership needs are not confined to national levels. In order to develop a healthy sense of participation on the part of average individuals, local and neighborhood leadership is extremely important.

I am wondering whether it might not be possible to have some organized efforts for the encouragement of the formation of such groups in this city. Some groups might be formed on the neighborhood or block unit, some within apartment houses, some in the churches or Sunday school classes.

The important thing is that as many people as possible should cooperate voluntarily so that those who can give only a little as well as those who can give a lot may share in the sacrificing.

Those who return from Europe report that these individual gifts are doing a great service to the cause of international good will.

Herblock Cartoons

I can no longer resist writing you about Cartoonist Herblock.

There is no newsman whom I miss more when he is on vacation nor to whose contributions I turn daily with more eagerness. Herblock is not only a great cartoonist but also has the ability to make an issue succinctly graphic in slashingly strong drawing. He is one of our great editors in point of his penetrating understanding of the issues which he brings into graphic relief.

The National Ethos

THE AMERICAN EXPERIENCE, by Henry Bamford Parkes. (Knopf, $3.50.)

Here we have a thoughtful and rather penetrating study in historical terms of the special qualities of American life and of the peculiarities of the American psychology. It is a book which I believe quite worthy of a place in any library which includes Democracy in America or The American Commonwealth. Mr. Parkes is at one with M. Andre Siegfried in holding it fallacy to consider "the civilization of America a mere extension without essential changes of that of Europe." Unless the American is recognized as a distinct "subspecies of humanity" it is impossible to understand all that seems "puzzling and disturbing in his achievements and behavior," or to reach any conclusions concerning the value and permanence of American institutions.

It is perhaps a commonplace to say that where the true genius of Europe has been hierarchial, that of America has been egalitarian; but, as far as I know, it has remained for Mr. Parkes to discover that transplanted American ideas have been the destruction of Europe, and that European ideas may one day prove to have been the destruction of America. Mr. Parkes seeks the key to the American genius in American religious traditions; for it is in their religions, he believes, rather than in their politics, that men and nations reveal themselves; a theology, he observes, "is a kind of collective poem or work of art that records the secret emotional history of a community." Thus in contradiction to Professor Wertenbaker and some others who have tended to discount the importance of the Puritan tradition in the shaping of American civilization and of the American character, Mr. Parkes is at pains to accentuate it; but his interpretation of this influence involves a number of subtle paradoxes.

The Calvinist doctrine of election and reprobation encouraged attitudes of self-assurance and aggressiveness; in denying to the human will any power to elect the means of salvation, it enormously enlarged the role of the will in human affairs, especially in the conquest of nature and in the pursuit of material success. The preeminent authority it gave to the Scriptures bred contempt for metaphysical speculation. It was, in short, a creed "particularly well suited to a race of individualistic pioneers," and at the moment of his arrival the Calvinist immigrant "was already half an American." This is to say that Calvinism nourished the very attitudes of mind that assured its eventual decline. Mr. Parkes indeed discerns the transition from Calvinism to Americanism in the theology of Jonathan Edwards, the "inner inconsistencies" of which "mirror with remarkable clarity the conflicting tendencies that run through the history of the American spirit." On the one side there is the exaltation of individualism and humanitarianism, on the other an exaltation of the will to power.

In politics the individualistic and egalitarian impulses of the American spirit were reflected in the concept of agrarian democracy with its ideal of "happy mediocrity." For such aspirations the physiological and political theories of John Locke and the economic doctrine of laissez-faire afforded no more than a congenial rational framework. The American will to power is reflected in the rise of industrial capitalism, which borrowed its earlier theoretic bases from the hierarchial tradition of Europe. This fatal ambivalence (to use a fashionable word) of the American genius is early evident; the Revolution of 1775-83 was the work of the egalitarian impulse; the Constitution of 1789 a reaction from it—a return, says Mr. Parkes, to the European principle of authority. The aspirations of agrarian democracy are traceable under various manifestations in the doctrines of Jefferson and Jackson, of the Populists and Progressives and in certain aspects of the New Deal; those of capitalism in the doctrines of Hamilton, Henry Clay and the post-Civil War Republicans. The triumph of capitalism was, however, inevitable "in a country where the pursuit of material success was so widespread and where every poor man hoped to become rich." The eighteenth-century dream of a society of small freeholders vanished because the "austerity and self-discipline" necessary to preserve it "were wholly contrary to the character of a pioneering people." It is thus that the urbanization of American life, the rise of great monopolies, the growth of an American proletariat and the disappearance of the frontier have at last rendered acute the conflicts and tensions always inherent in the American genius and have created that "sense of frustration and maladjustment that is so pervasive a characteristic of the twentieth century American mind."

The question whether these disharmonies will in the end be destructive of American freedom and civilization depends upon whether Americans can find religious and esthetic aspirations that will replace their historic preoccupation with material success. Meanwhile Europe has come to disaster by its effort, under the stimulus of the American example, to assimilate the egalitarian doctrine, thereby destroying the sense of unity and harmony it had inherited from its feudal and aristocratic past. America has never experienced such a sense of order, and her salvation depends upon whether she can now find one. It must, however, be an order congruous with her own egalitarian genius. For if Americans repeat the mistake of the Hamiltonians and seek to superimpose European patterns on American life, America will follow Europe into the totalitarian night.

Aid For Europe

By Ernest Lindley

Is A Special Agency Needed?

RETURNING MEMBERS of the special House Committee on Foreign Aid, under the chairmanship of Representative Herter, reveal that they have been discussing the creation of a Government corporation to administer aid to Europe and perhaps to other parts of the world. Such a corporation, it is proposed, would have an original capitalization of possibly four billion dollars, with authority to obtain additional funds by selling Government-guaranteed bonds. It would manage the entire foreign aid program and might also be empowered to make contracts for the delivery to this country of strategic materials and other things in partial repayment.

A similar proposal was made recently by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank. In various forms, the idea of a Government corporation has been discussed also in Washington, not only by Government officials but by advisers from private life, including some of the members of the President's Committee on Foreign Aid. In the President's committee, former Senator Robert M. La Follette is chairman of a subcommittee charged with recommending a scheme of administration for the European recovery program.

MANY ATTRACTIVE arguments are made for the creation of a special corporation, similar to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to handle the foreign-aid program. Such a corporation could provide both flexibility and sound financial and business management. Much—almost all—would depend, however, first on the terms of its charter and then on the men intrusted with its direction.

The plan discussed by the members of the Herter Committee has an additional special appeal to Congress and probably to the public. It would permit a considerable part of the European recovery program to be financed outside the regular budget. This part would not have to be paid for out of current taxation, and the money borrowed by the corporation would not add to the Federal debt—not immediately, at least. To permit borrowing at low rates of interest, the securities would have to be backed by a Government guarantee. But they would be in the corporation's own securities and would not become a charge against the Treasury until later years and then only to the extent that they could not be retired out of repayments made by European borrowers.

Under some such scheme, Congress could approve an adequate European recovery program and at the same time leave room for tax reduction without throwing the regular budget into the red.

HOW MUCH of the proposed aid to Europe could or will be repaid eventually is an open question. Part of it, especially the emergency food needs of the months ahead, probably should be counted as straight relief—as gifts for which no repayment is expected. Much of the long-range program drawn at Paris is designed to increase European productivity, however. For this part—a major part of the Paris program—European nations almost certainly will be required to pledge eventual repayment.

A means of financing the program without interference with tax reduction next year would lessen congressional resistance.

One potential danger in setting up a corporation or other agency of that sort is that it will tend to operate independently of the foreign policy of the United States: That it will tend to formulate its own foreign policy. This tendency was patent during the early part of the war in the Office of War Information, the Foreign Economic Administration, and, on some occasions, among the RFC affiliates. It has been exhibited since the war by the Export-Import Bank, although in this instance failure to cooperate with the State Department is largely attributable to the legal restrictions on the bank's operations imposed by Congress.

In the administration of foreign economic aid, political and economic considerations cannot be sharply separated. The program cannot be subject to the control of the officials responsible for the formulation and conduct of our foreign policy as a whole. Congress also will demand, and should have, a measure of continuing supervision. How to devise an administrative machine which will meet these requirements and at the same time retain the advantages of a corporate form is puzzling, as those who have put their minds to it have discovered.

Mission Urges More Powers For Samoans

Lake Success, Oct. 12 (AP).—A special mission of the United Nations recommended today establishment of a "government of western Samoa" for the Pacific island territory administered by New Zealand under the international trusteeship system.

Under suggestions of the mission, first of its kind since the trusteeship system was established under the U. N. Charter, a larger measure of self-government for the island would be provided by New Zealand.

Although the mission's findings are not binding on New Zealand as the administering power, the New Zealand government already has announced plans for a new government on western Samoa. The mission said these plans were "closely in line," with its recommendations.

The mission suggested five general changes in governmental structure of the island:

1. Establishment of a "government of western Samoa," in which New Zealand "should vest certain of the powers conferred upon it by the "trusteeship agreement" for the territory.

2. Creation of a council of state composed of a representative of New Zealand, to be called a high commissioner, as chairman, and one or more representatives of the people of western Samoa, acting jointly.

3. The Samoan members of the council of state should have the right to initiate legislation in all matters except those reserved to the administering authority and to advise the high commissioner on all matters relating to the government and the territory, including the appointment of executive department chiefs.

4. The present legislative council, which is composed of the administrator, and seven officials, four Samoans and two Europeans, should be replaced by a legislative assembly with powers of legislation in which the Samoans would have an absolute majority.

5. The New Zealand government, continuing as the administering authority for the territory, should reserve its powers on the following matters: adoption and amendments of the constitution, external relations, defense, currency, loans and foreign exchange, and the discharge of its responsibilities under the U. N. Charter and the trusteeship agreement.

The mission was composed of Francis B. Sayre of the United States, trusteeship council president; Pierre Ryckmans, former governor-general of the Belgian Congo and Belgian representative on the trusteeship council, and Senator Eduardo Cruz-Coke of Chile.

The other half of the string of islands is known as American Samoa and is governed by the Navy. However, Congress has been considering placing the American territory under civilian rule.

Philippines Take Over Corregidor

Corregidor, Philippines, Oct. 12 (AP).—As the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner" rolled out over the topside parade ground of this once-doughty fortress, at the mouth of Manila Bay, the Stars and Stripes were gently lowered at 12:15 p. m. today for the last time.

With soldierly snap, First Lieut John Buczek of Blue Island, Ill., and a color guard of the United States Army's Philippine Scout folded the flag and gave it to Capt. Vincente Alhambra of the Philippine army.

A Philippines color guard then slowly hoisted the golden-sunned red, white and blue garrison flag of the Philippine Republic while the band played the Philippine Anthem.

For the first time since the Spanish took it over as a fortress in 1793, Corregidor was in Filipino possession.

There was a lump in every American throat as the crowd of 400 invited guests witnessed the brief, reverent ceremony.

Among them were 30 survivors of the heartbreaking five-month siege and fall of Corregidor more than five years ago, including its commander in war and in the peace, Maj. Gen. George F. Moore.

Britain Advertises Spending Plight In Sunday Papers

London, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—The British government turned to Sunday newpaper advertisements today to appeal for a 10 per cent increase in production and warn Britons they were living beyond their means to the extent of an 800-million-dollar adverse trade balance for the past three months.

The advertisement underlined the magnitude of the task of Sir Stafford Cripps, new economic minister who emerged last week as the most powerful man in the British cabinet. He is a potential candidate to succeed Clement Attlee as Premier if he succeeds in pulling the nation out of its economic crisis.

The government advertisement, first of a series to be issued every two weeks, said that the last three months' adverse trade balance was the "worst yet."—"Exactly like a family spending 10 pounds sterling for every six pounds sterling it earns."

A Plea From India

IN WASHINGTON last week the Indian Ambassador, M. Asaf Ali, called a press conference. His purpose was a plea to America, and the plea was for wheat. India, the Ambassador said, needs a larger share of the world's wheat surplus than has been proposed, and unless the wheat is provided faces famine, starvation of millions.

The news of that lies in the lack of news that attended it in the press. Hardly did it reach beyond Washington. In normal times, famine in India would be arresting news, it would stir popular emotion, incite steps for the outpouring of relief, by the Government and the people. The lack of much notice now is not due merely to the quantity of appeals from many countries. It is due in part to the quantity of another thing—the almost daily emergency of event and announcements, each of which in normal times would be recognized as momentous, but the sum of which has caused a kind of national induration. There is a limit to the human capacity to endure tension, at least to respond to new shocks.

But if our people are indurated, our Government officials cannot permit themselves to be. Each of many developments calls for decision, on the highest level of national policy. And the urgency of the decisions is suggested by an epigram which says "The decision must be made yesterday."

WITHIN A FEW DAYS of the announcement about need of wheat for India came a statement about China by Mr. William C. Bullitt, former Ambassador to Russia and France. He gave out, in the current Life a warning about the very existence of the United States as a Nation:

"Soviet imperialism . . . using the Chinese Communists as instruments of Soviet power politics, is trying to reduce China to the status of a satellite of the Soviet Union. In our own self-defense, therefore, we must act to prevent Soviet domination of China and the eventual mobilization of China's manpower for war against us . . . If China falls into the hands of Stalin all Asia including Japan sooner or later will fall into his hands. The manpower and resources of Asia will be mobilized against us. The independence of the United States will not live a generation longer than the independence of China."

Some of the policies our Government and people are called upon to consider and some of the decisions they are called upon to make, are not only momentous each in itself. They are of that sequent nature in which one decision creates a new problem calling for another decision. They have an inter-relation, and also an urgency like a time table.

Last week, in the United Nations, we decided to support the plan for partition of Palestine. That decision brought from one of the leaders of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, Dr. A. B. Silver, a statement that it was: American statesmanship at its best and noblest." But the possibility of the partition of Palestine brought ominous protest from Arab leaders. They have indicated that we might lose their friendship by supporting the partition of Palestine.

THIS ATTITUDE of Arab leaders toward our decision about Palestine creates new problems. Last week Secretary of Defense Forrestal said that the development of oil reserves in one of the Arab countries, Saudi Arabia, is "essential" to us. In another area of the Middle East, Iran, we have been gravely involved to see that the Russians did not take that country over for its oil. A State Department official, Dr. Charles B. Rayner, has said: "I cannot stress the importance of this (Middle East) part of the world too strongly." He added that the oil reserves of the Middle East are greatly in excess of our own, which we have depleted during the war.

These problems, and the decisions they entail, all to the front one way or another within a few days, have all to do with Asia, and are by no means the sum of the problems that confront us in that continent. Added to these Asiatic ones are the problems associated with Europe, which alone strain our capacity to grasp them and strain human capacity to respond.

Pope Pius Pleads for Charity In Radio Address to Catholics

Vatican City, Oct. 12 (AP).—Pope Pius XII, speaking by short-wave radio to the United States National Catholic Charities Conference in New Orleans, said tonight that the race of men "had fallen among thieves who steal away its treasure of faith and love and leave it to languish in helpless want."

The purpose of the founder of the order of St. Vincent de Paul, active in charities in America (and elsewhere), was to "demonstrate that the teachings of Christ are still workable in the present," he said.

He said, however, that in works of charity it was not enough to give money, givers must also give themselves.

The Pontiff delivered his second radio address of the day tonight, speaking in Spanish over short-wave to the first Argentine National Marian Congress meeting in Lujan, Argentina.

Miss Crouch Engaged To Governor of S. C.

Elko, S. C., Oct. 12 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Crouch of Elko tonight announced the engagement of their daughter, Jean, 21, to Gov. James Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

The announcement said the wedding would take place at the executive mansion in Columbia, November 7.

Luxembourg, Oct. 12 (AP).—The Luxembourg Postoffice Administration announced today it will issue two stamps featuring the face of the late Gen. George S. Patton, jr., with his tanks liberating the City of Luxembourg. Two other stamps will show where the general is buried.

Britain Celebrates Composer's Birthday

London, Oct. 12 (AP).—Ralph Vaughan Williams, considered by many to be Britain's greatest living composer, was 75 years old today.

He observed the occasion quietly at his home in Dorking, Surrey. However, the nation is devoting a full week to the celebration, with the best of his works being featured on British Broadcasting Corp. Programs and in concert halls. Vaughn Williams has written symphonic works and compositions on religious subjects.

VA to Fill 700 Clerical Jobs

The Veterans' Administration will be in the market for about 700 low-paid clerical employes here before December 1.

Kluttz

The new people will be assigned to VA's actuarial insurance division that's being moved from New York to space in the Munitions Building here. Several hundred vacant jobs already have been transferred back here, and it's now planned to have the entire office here by early December. Employes recently laid off by VA will be given preference for the openings.

Only 800 employes remain in the actuarial offices in New York. A recent check shows that no more than 100 of these people—only the key employes—will move here with the agency. So, most of the jobs will be filled here. The office had 1500 employes in New York not many months ago. However, VA expects to do the job with fewer employes in this city.

VA also suggested it be permitted to move about 1000 more of its insurance jobs back here from New York. The matter was taken direct to the President who decided that this move could be postponed temporarily in view of the tight housing condition here. But he promised to review the matter in February.

STORY: The Army recently hired a few part-time workers. One of the applicants was a person who hadn't worked previously for Uncle Sam, and therefore didn't have a Civil Service rating. She was asked to take a qualifying exam. The girl sat down at her desk and looked over the questions. Indignantly, stormed back to the supervisor in charge to complain:

"I shouldn't be required to take this full examination. I only want a part-time job. If this was handled fairly you'd allow me to take only part of this test."

LOYALTY: The Administration is angling for a prominent retired Federal judge to head up its Civil Service loyalty review board. The man is reported to be Judge Kimbrough Stone of Kansas City, who recently retired as presiding judge of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals where he made a distinguished record.

Judge Stone was appointed to the Court of Appeals in 1917 by Woodrow Wilson. Only one other judge has served longer on the appeals bench. If appointed, Stone can be expected to introduce judicial procedure to the employe hearings. He retired last May and the President appointed his old friend and war agency official, J. Caskie Collett, to the post.

SUBVERSIVE: Membership of the 15-man part-time board to hear appeals of Federal workers accused of disloyalty will be made public in about a week.

Perhaps the first major decision facing the board will be whether to release the list of organizations which the Attorney General has classified as "subversive." The Justice Department will not release the list. Attorney General Tom Clark will turn it over to the loyalty board which then must decide what use is to be made of it. It's a safe bet the board will vote to make it public.

NEW: The Senate Appropriations Committee is being given a preview of the 1949 Federal budget. Its staff members are sitting in on agency budget hearings now being conducted by the Budget Bureau. This forward step was worked out by Budget Director Jim Webb and Tom Graves, staff director for Chairman Bridges of the Senate committee. The House committee is now attempting something similar.

JOB NEWS: A Civil Service examination for safety inspector position in Interstate Commerce will be announced soon. The jobs pay $4149 to start . . . Civil Service has warned agencies that it will soon order the firings of war service and temporary employes in the operating engineer jobs here in salary levels of $2469, $2494 and $2895 . . . On October 20, Civil Service will withdraw the authority of agencies to make temporary appointments of CAF-4 stenographers. CAF-2 and CAF-3 stenographers aren't affected. Civil Service has a few displaced career CAF-4 stenographers to place.

ORDER: Civil Service has authorized Federal agencies to take the initiative in firing war service people and to fill their jobs with persons whose names are on Civil Service registers. This means that the agencies are free to hire as many war service and temporary employes as there are eligibles on Civil Service registers.

The order will have this effect—to speed up the conversion from war to peace and to give jobs to persons who have qualified through exams.

VETERANS: Another Civil Service order permits time spent in peacetime military service to be counted along with civilian service in computing the length of time a former employe has reinstatement rights.

Congressmen Find Air Hazards On European Inspection Tour

London, Oct. 12 (AP).—Four members of the United States House Civil Aviation Committee arrived last night after an air tour of southern Europe with a belief they had been using some unsafe airfields.

"Imagine a string of 100-watt light bulbs, the kind you use in your kitchen, held together by some dime store wires," said Chairman Marion T. Bennett (R., Mo.). "That will give you an impression of the night landing facilities at Athens."

He said the great variation in safety standards, and differences in operating techniques, are obstacles to the development of international civil aviation, but that they can be overcome with patient negotiation.

Members of the committee have visited France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Greece, Turkey and Spain. They will fly to Stockholm October 15, to Copenhagen October 18 and Amsterdam October 19, returning to the United States shortly thereafter to make recommendations to the full Civil Aviation Committee.

Cigar Denial Proposed To Punish Churchill

London, Oct. 12 (AP).—Lord Chorley, a Labor peer, proposed at a Labor Party meeting yesterday that Winston Churchill's cigars, trademark of the chain-smoking wartime Prime Minister, be taken away in "punishment" for his criticism of the Attlee government.

"Mr. Churchill should be ashamed of himself for the things he has been saying recently about our leaders," Lord Chorley said.

700 German Factories Listed for Dismantling

Berlin, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—A list of 700 German industrial plants in the American and British occupation zones earmarked for dismantling and reparations delivery will be announced Thursday, Neue Zeitung, newspaper organ of American Military Government, said today.

Removal of the plants, valued at one billion dollars, is not expected to affect Anglo-American plans to raise German industrial production to 1936 levels. The newspaper said that 493 of the plants are in the British zone, the remainder in the American zone.

Alpine Villages Vote On Return to France

Paris, Oct. 12 (AP).—Five Alpine villages in the French-Italian border area around Tende voted today on their restoration to France, as decreed under the Allied peace treaty with Italy.

The conservative newspaper L'Epoque estimated 80 to 90 per cent of the 2800 registered voters would ratify the transfer. The French Constitution forbids the acquisition of territory without the consent of its inhabitants. At the invitation of France, the World Court sent three observers to watch the voting.

Woman Dies In Traffic

James J. Davis, 23, of 211 H st. ne. at Gallinger Hospital in fair condition with lacerations of the back and chest injuries, and Paul F. Cooper, 27, of 1349 Wallach pl. nw., who was treated at Casualty Hospital for face lacerations.

Police said that about 1 a. m., a truck operated by Morris Travalini, 50, of 4939 Minnesota ave. ne., jumped a curb at Kenilworth ave. and Hayes st. ne., and struck a Pepco pole. Travalini was treated at Casualty Hospital for a fractured left knee.

Meanwhile, the police accident investigation unit revised District traffic death toll for the year to include Dennis Murphy, 12, of 3212 M st. se. The boy died Saturday night at Casualty Hospital of injuries suffered the previous night when he fell from his bicycle in the 1300 block of 29th st. se. The AIU listed him as the fifty-seventh traffic victim of the year. Deputy Coroner Rosenberg issued a certificate of accidental death.

Two persons were injured when a car collided with a telephone pole on Route 240 near Clarksburg, Md., at about 11:30 a. m. yesterday. Two children escaped serious injury.

Ralph Q. Butler, 27, of 7 Boyd ave., Takoma Park, Md., was operator of the car, police said. He told Montgomery County police at Rockville that his steering gear broke causing him to lose control of the car.

Butler and his wife, Mildred, were taken to Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, by the Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Rescue squad. He suffered possible fractured ribs and Mrs. Butler a possible broken jaw. The children, one an infant, escaped with slight bruises, police said, and were taken to Takoma Park by friends.

In another crash on Route 240, two persons were injured in a three-car collision at Derwood curve, about 2 miles north of Rockville, at about 8 p. m. Saturday.

The injured were Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Olson of 311 34th pl. ne., who were married two weeks ago and were returning home from a honeymoon.

Five men and a boy were seriously hurt in a traffic accident near Culpeper, Va., when a stake-body truck rammed the rear of a dump truck two miles east of Norman, Va.

Taken to the University of Virginia Hospital at Charlottesville, the seriously hurt were identified as Walter Scott, 11, of Culpeper, serious head injuries; David Richards of Culpeper, serious back injuries; Andrew Brown of Culpeper, serious head injuries; Stewart Colburn, serious head injuries. Two others were unidentified.

A seventh victim, Lee Edwards, 42, also of Culpeper, was said to be in fair condition, with face lacerations. Virginia State police investigating the accident said it occurred at about 8 p. m. Further details were incomplete last night.

to cause panic" but that they had failed that purpose.

Most of the Arab troops were reported camped in the area of Deganya which is situated on a narrow strip of Palestine territory east of the Jordan River. It is one of the oldest Jewish settlements and is only 10 miles north of Naharayim, Palestine's hydroelectric power station which furnishes the Holy Land's entire industrial power supply.

Hagana already has taken steps to counter the Arab maneuvers, mobilizing an undisclosed part of its full strength of 75,000 men and sending reinforcements to four frontier settlements, including Kefar Giladi.

Today the Jewish extremist underground organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi, pledged its members to the Zionist recruiting drive against the threatened Arab attack. It indicated it would be willing to join with the moderate Hagana in any showdown battle.

Irgun's about-face on the question of cooperating with Hagana was announced in a clandestine radio broadcast shortly before the Arab underground, striking for the second time in a month against supporters of a partitioned Palestine, bombed the Polish consulate.

Polish Consul General Gustav Gorkeh said no one was injured because the building was empty at the time. The bomb exploded near the entrance, with damage limited to a few broken windows, Gorkeh said.

The attack was believed to have been carried out by the Arab extremist underground organization "Jihad," which bombed the Swedish consulate last month after Sweden's delegate in the United Nations made a speech favoring partition of Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish states.

The Arab underground threatened to attack the consulates of all nations favoring partition and as a result guards have been placed around the United States consulate, among others, in the past 48 hours.

ness will have faith in the future and if the Government will "take its full employment guarantee seriously, there need never be a serious recession or depression again in our country."

But the whole report of 75 printed pages was not that glowing.

Murray made much of high prices and profits. He said although the economy has shown "many encouraging signs," the steady rise of prices and profits, plus other factors, "will eventually produce a major depression," unless halted.

He outlined a 17-point economic program, the first point an "all-out attack" on the present price level. He said reestablishment of price ceilings "should be squarely faced."

Since the report was printed, the CIO position on this has become much stronger. Murray in recent statements and speeches has been strenuously demanding a special session of Congress to restore price control and rationing.

Murray didn't go into detail on how the proposed "national industrial councils" would operate.

He has made similar proposals in other years. But the suggestion took on new interest because of present economic conditions, and especially because of his emphasis on strengthening democracy throughout the world.

In today's report Murray repeated the CIO argument that wages can constantly increase while prices go down, and that history proves it.

But—significantly—he didn't make a demand for new wage increases in the near future. (Last year's CIO convention went on record for "substantial" wage raises.)

Murray devoted many pages to the Taft-Hartley labor law and the CIO's determination to defeat at the polls those who voted for it. He said:

"The basic issue in the 1948 election is already clear. The Congress enacted the Taft-Hartley bill; the Congress will repeal the Taft-Hartley bill."

Health Groups Gather In Arlington Tonight

Representatives of various health groups in Arlington will adopt a constitution and by-laws tonight for the Arlington Chapter of the Virginia Health and Medical Care Council. The meeting opens at 8 o'clock in the Health Department auditorium, 1800 N. Edison st., Arlington.

Charles R. Fenwick, chairman of the new organization, said the local chapter will act as a clearing committee for health group members.

campaigns, Hutcheson has served as chief of the Republican National Committee's labor division. Lewis only once deserted the GOP, in 1936.

Green said that the political program, recommended yesterday by the AFL executive council, would permit a presidential indorsement if the AFL wished to make one. The league is authorized to spread information "concerning the attitude of candidates for Federal offices toward the political and economic policies of the AFL."

To Get Out Votes

"Our principal objective will be to get out the voters of our members and families to defeat those Congressmen who voted for the Taft-Hartley bill and elect candidates favorable to labor," he said. "They may be Democratic, Republican or some other party."

Green estimated that organized labor, with 15 million members, could swing 30 million votes, or about one third of the 90 million voting eligibles in the country.

Labor politicians believe they can elect a Congress favorable to them whenever the total national vote exceeds 40 million.

Green said that AFL-LEPL would not work jointly with CIO-PAC.

Funds for the new AFL venture will be raised by voluntary contributions of assessments.

The 74-year-old Green plans to hold night sessions during the four remaining days of the convention to get through the mass or controversial policy matters. These include an amendment to the AFL constitution to enable all AFL members to qualify for National Labor Relations Board services under the Taft-Hartley's non-Communist affidavit provision and settlement of the Hollywood movie studio jurisdictional strike.

Florida Labor Chiefs Form Political Unit

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 12 (AP).—Florida labor leaders, representing AFL, CIO and independent unions, banded together today to form the United Labor Political Committee.

Avowed purpose of the combined organization is to mobilize votisg stresgth for 1948 elections. The leaders expressed concern over the possibility of "more restrictive laws" next year.

Representatives of the Florida AFL and the CIO joined the International Association of Machinists, the Southern Federation of Telephone Workers and Big Four Railroad Brotherhoods to form the committee.

MORE PEOPLE ARE SMOKING CAMELS THAN EVER BEFORE!

"GREATEST Match Game Bowler of All Time" is the title that bowling authorities have given Ned Day. He's had years of experience as a bowler. His most enlightening experience as a smoker dates back to the wartime cigarette shortage.

"Those were the days," says Ned, "when I smoked whatever brand I could get. Naturally, I compared the different brands I smoked. I found by experience that no other cigarette suits my 'T-Zone' like a Camel!"

Many thousands had that same experience. With smoker after smoker who tried and compared, Camels are the "choice of experience."

Try Camels. Let your own experience . . . your "T-Zone" . . . tell you why more people are smoking Camels than ever before!

According to a Nationwide survey:

Mr. Jordan Again

'Down to Earth' Finds Rita a Muse

By Richard L. Coe

RITA HAYWORTH, dressed in befitting Technicolor, has arrived on the Warner screen in a pleasant little diversion, "Down to Earth."

The story is a continuation of the "Mr. Jordan" business. Rita plays Terpsichore, one of the nine muses of Greek mythology, who comes down to earth in a tirade because she doesn't like what a Broadway producer is doing to her in a show he calls "Swinging the Muses."

As fantasy it doesn't quite capture the lightness it evidently strives for. Still, it's a good-looking piece of trivia and is certainly superior to the crop of musicals that have been around lately.

Naturally, as both goddess and musical comedy star pro tem, the trimly constructed Rita is fetching to watch. She has several blithe numbers, best of which is "This Can't Be Legal," which she sings with Larry Parks and Marc Platt.

Parks is on hand as the producer-leading man of the show the goddess objects to; this time he sings with his own voice—not Al Jolson's. While the Parks voice is by no means of Jolson's individuality, it didn't seem any more purile to those ears than most other leading-men voices. He's only got one number, however, which indicates that Columbia's not too enthralled with it.

But if the producers don't let Parks sing much, they don't let Marc Platt dance much, either, which is too bad, because Platt's a guy who can dance. What dancing there is in the film is pretty good, but with Platt around as a partner for Rita there could be a lot more.

Carried over from "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" of six years ago are Jordan himself (with Roland Culver playing the role created by Claude Rains), Edward Everett Horton, as Messenger 7013, and James Gleason, as the manager who has shifted from fighters to theater folk. The plot involves the goddess of the dance and how she reluctantly has to go back to heaven after her good deed turns into love. But you know love; there is a happy ending.

It's all staged with elegance and finesse and there are some amusing lines. You'll enjoy "Down to Earth" so long as you don't expect it to be the brightest thing that's ever happened.

"DOWN TO EARTH," Columbia release produced by Don Hartman. Screenplay by Hartman and Edwin Blum, with characters taken from "Heaven Can Wait," a play by Harry Segall. Songs by Allan Roberts and Doris Fisher. Directed by Alexander Hall. Larry Parks voice by Larry Parks. At the Warner.

TONIGHT'S the night for the Barter Theater bow in the District, a too-long-overdue event for this city. "Twelfth Night" is the play and this desk has had a pack of reports on how well it was received last week in the nearby Virginia towns visited. Western High School, 35th and R sts. nw., is the place, 8:30 the hour. Yes, it's Shakespeare, but Virginia's State theater makes it the fun its author intended it to be. During the day you can get tickets at the Snow Agency in Campbell's Music Shop, 1108 G st. nw.

"NO EXIT," the Jean-Paul Sartre play, will open the new King-Smith subscription series a week from tomorrow night, the twenty-first. Sartre's hair-raising story concerns three people in hell, a hell which is simply a sitting room to which they are condemned for eternity. Though the play didn't have a long New York run last season, it fascinated critics and audiences alike; this will be its first performance in Washington. The King-Smith run will be for three weeks in the small playhouse at the rear of 2118 Massachusetts ave.

ANOTHER THEATER group getting under way for its new season is the Foundry Theater, which opens Wednesday with a two-night run for "Papa Juan" in the auditorium of the Foundry Methodist Church, 16th and P sts. nw. Jane Plummer Rice is directing a cast headed by Marion Beasley, Virginia Stone and Robert Fabik.

BRIEFLY: "Shadow of a Doubt," that expert Alfred Hitchcock study of murder written by Thornton Wilder, Sally Benson and Alma Reville, is back at the Mount Vernon Open Air for a run that winds up Wednesday . . . "The Adventuress," solidly into its third week at the Hippodrome, shows signs of being one of those pictures that will hold a fourth . . . Showmen around town are reminded that there's a "short, vital" business meeting of the Variety Club tonight at 8:30 in the clubrooms.

THE HANDS OF A MURDERER are all you see of the villain in this scene from "Crossfire," but he's identified early in the film. This controversial picture, whose theme is antisemitism, opens Wednesday at Keith's with Robert Ryan, Robert Mitchum and Robert Young in the central roles

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Stand on Food For Europe Is Stressed

By Drew Pearson

Washington.—Newspapers gave considerable space to the first press conference staged by Food Committee Chairman Chuck Luckman and the fact that newsmen severely rattled his usually sauve and polished aplomb.

But what the newspapers did not know was that Luckman had just come from a backstage battle within this committee over meatless Tuesday and the only thing he really had to announce was that the committee was split wide open. Not wishing to reveal this, he couldn't reveal much of anything.

What happened behind the scenes was that when Luckman's committee couldn't agree, President Truman, who has a deep personal conviction about the importance of food to Europe, virtually took the bit in his teeth. He tilted the scales in favor of the meatless Tuesday.

The whole matter was not decided, however, until shortly before the President went on the radio Sunday.

Briefly, here is the backstage byplay:

When Luckman called the Citizens Food Committee together Mrs. Kathryn Stone of the League of Women Voters staunchly opposed a meatless day.

Mrs. Stone

"There's no sense asking housewives to observe a meatless day when many of them already are observing one or more meatless days a week, due to high prices," Mrs. Stone declared. "The first thing we've got to do if we want to save grain and bring down meat prices is cut down the amount of grain being fed to cattle."

In fact, Mrs. Stone was for much stronger measures and urged that the President call a special session of Congress to deal with the entire problem of European relief and inflation. On November 1, she pointed out, installment credit-buying restrictions expire and this will give a further boost to inflation.

"Furthermore," Mrs. Stone added, "you've got to tell the American women the whole story behind the need for conserving food if you expect them to have the political maturity to cooperate wholeheartedly. You've got to tell them exactly why it is so vital to our own welfare that we help friendly European nations. That hasn't been done."

Others who came out against a meatless day and for a special session of Congress were James Patton, head of the National Farmers' Union, and Don Montgomery, right-hand man of CIO President Phil Murray.

"A meatless day is impractical and I doubt very much that it will work," declared Montgomery at the closed-door session. "The first thing we ought to do is to stop overfeeding of wheat to cattle. We derive only one-seventh of the original calory content of wheat in a piece of meat from grain-fed cattle. The other six-sevenths are lost in the feeding." Another who voiced strong objections was George LeSauvage of the National Restaurant Association.

"The restaurants tried a meatless day in the spring of 1945 and, as I recall, during the First World War," said LeSauvage. "It didn't work then. In my opinion it won't work now. Another thing, what are you going to do about hamburger and frankfurter stands? Most of them operate on small margins of profit, depending on volume sales. They may be forced to the wall if they have to observe a meatless day."

On the other hand, some committee members, including Albert Goss of the National Grange, thought a meatless day would work if the general public were sufficiently impressed with the need of stopping starvation and communism in Europe. But Farm Leader Goss strongly objected to the special-session demands of Mrs. Stone, Montgomery and Patton.

"Lowering prices will increase consumption, but it will not provide more food," asserted Goss. "We can conserve food only by voluntary action of the public. And if we save food that, in itself, will increase supplies and therefore bring down prices. This crisis can be handled without calling Congress back into session."

Split Vote

When a final vote was taken the committe was split about 50-50 on a meatless Tuesday. So Luckman didn't press the point. When he reported this to the President, however, Truman was quite emphatic.

"We've got to make up our minds that we can't lick this problem with halfway, namby-pamby measures," he told Luckman, in effect. "There are certain simple specific ways to conserve food. One is a meatless day I'm going to recommend it to the Nation."

Luckman didn't have to be sold on this. He had already argued eloquently but vainly for a meatless day, and now he put in long-distance calls to Mrs. Stone, Jim Patton and others to tell them how the President felt. Most then withdrew their objection. So, by the time Mr. Truman went on the air with his radio appeal to the Nation, most Food Committee members had pledged their support.

Supreme Court Gets Down To Business of Decisions

By the United Press

The Supreme Court assembles for its first business session today.

The tribunal opened its 1947-48 term last Monday with a brief ceremonious session, and then recessed for a week. Tomorrow the justices will hand down the first orders of the year and begin oral hearings on cases already before the bench.

In its orders, the court is expected to act on some 200 cases accumulated over the summer, announcing whether review of lower court decision will be granted.

In half a dozen cases employers have asked the court to throw out proceedings against them because of enactment of the Taft-Hartley law. They say orders of the National Labor Relations Board, some issued three or four years ago, are now illegal.

In other appeals, Negro petitioners are insisting on their right to live in "zoned" neighborhoods, to attend white State universities, and to serve on State juries without discrimination.

Two years after the end of World War II, only a sprinkling of warborn cases is on the court's docket. A few government prosecutions of OPA violations have been appealed. Only one case involves veteran's rights. An ex-serviceman, returning to his job in Chicago as a rug salesman, is demanding his old territory and commission rate.

The tribunal is expected to act on a plea by the State of California to reconsider its decision last June that the Federal Government is the lawful owner of 3000 miles of submerged oil-lands off California's coast.

Sacrifices of U. S. War Heroes Idealized

The sacrifices of America's war heroes, many of whose bodies recently reached America, were idealized yesterday by the Rev. W. Kenneth Lyons, pastor of Anacostia Methodist Church, 14th and U sts. se.

Addressing a congregation that included parents of some war dead, Mr. Lyons said:

"As terribly deadly and destructive as was the war, we can never shut our eyes to the high and fine idealism and unselfishness that caused so many of our young men to lay down their lives for the homeland."

Dr. Hurst

Rev. Lyons

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Clark, sr., of 1626 16th st. se., recently requested Mr. Lyons to conduct a service at the Arlington grave of their son, Wallace, jr., who died in action abroad.

No Excuse for Loneliness

Dr. Alfred Wesley Hurst said, "There is no excuse for being lonely in Washington."

Preaching at a "Guest Sunday" observance at Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 34th and Lowell sts. nw., Dr. Hurst said many Washingtonians are lonely "because they don't take advantage of the multitude of potential friends—some of them living in the same block and on the same apartment house floor."

The cure for loneliness, stated the minister, "is an outgoing interest in other people." Most members of the church brought guests to the service.

Capacity Congregation

A capacity congregation yesterday morning turned out to honor the tenth anniversary of Dr. Peter Marshall's pastorate of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The pastor, also chaplain of the Senate, will be further honored at a service there tomorrow at 8 p. m., followed by a reception and presentation of anniversary gifts. One church spokesman said over the weekend that the minister would like a gift of a trip to his native Scotland.

Scheduled to address the service tomorrow night are Drs. Clarence W. Cranford, John W. Rustin and Edward H. Pruden, respective pastors of Calvary Baptist, Mount Vernon Place Methodist and First Baptist churches.

One for the Bright Blue Weather

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

The day is clear and fresh and spiced with autumn's tang.

Somewhere there's a friendly little road where Nature has done her gorgeous best with scarlets and golds of her own special blending.

It's a moment to be prized — to be seized — to be implanted forever in memory's book; so slip into this one and make the most of it.

Reach forward and touch the control that swings back the top — on a day like this, you'll want to be one with the air and the sky and the sparkling sunshine.

For a windscreen, lift the handy button that rolls up the door window — to adjust the front seat to your liking, touch a third automatic control, and you're all set.

Gun the motor. Eight Fireball cylinders answer that they're ready for anything you are.

Swing the wheel. Light and sure as your finger, it lets you know that a hand's weight is enough on this firm but feathery helm.

Steal a glance at your reflection in a passing store window. You'll find you look as you feel, bright and gay as this wonderful day.

Seek out a rough spot, just for test purposes. Your soft coil springs are alert on the job, soaking up the rough spots; ample inches and abundant roadweight are here to keep your going level and true.

You've got everything you need for a wonderful time, so go ahead. Let your cares slip away in the breeze you stir up. Drink in refreshment for soul and spirit, for mind and nerves.

For that's why we build this Convertible.

For the fun it can bring you through the seasons. For sunny days and bright blue weather — for gorgeous days to come, when all outdoors beckons you to enjoy the pleasures of the open road.

Why don't you plan now to have one for your own?

It may take a little waiting, but just as surely as autumn follows summer, and winter blossoms into spring, this car of cars can be yours, if you place an order now — with or without a car to trade.

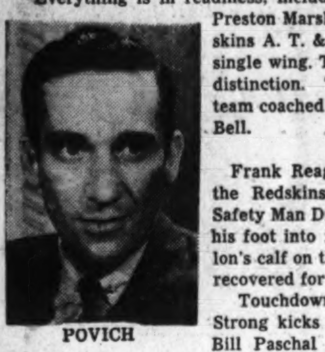
Skins Down Giants, 28-20, Vault Into Tie for Lead

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

GRIFFITH STADIUM, Oct. 12.—Everybody who is anybody with $3.60 is here to watch the Redskins play the Giants. The Giants are introduced singly as they trot on the field, but the Redskins aren't paying much attention. They've met 'em before—21 times.

Everything is in readiness, including the telephones in George Preston Marshall's upper box. It's the Redskins A. T. & T. system against the Giants' single wing. The Redskins already have one distinction. They're the only pro football team coached by the late Alexander Graham Bell.



POVICH

Frank Reagan punts for the Giants and the Redskins are in trouble, all because Safety Man Dick Poillon inadvertantly stuck his foot into it. The ball bounces off Poillon's calf on the Redskins' 10 and Ray Poole recovered for the Giants on the Redskins' 8.

Touchdown, Giants, and as soon as Ken Strong kicks the extra point it will be 7-0. Bill Paschal skirted right end from four yards out with Duckworth, Lookabaugh and Jenkins of the Redskins reaching for him and coming up with three mouthfuls of sod.

THE REDSKINS are on the march now and have just chalked up their best gain of the game—a 15-yard clipping penalty against the Giants. Bob Nussbaumer bucks through the middle for 9 yards before the Giants deduce he has the ball. A fast guy with a buck.

Dick Poillon goes 21 yards to the Giants 2, reintroducing the stiff-arm to football. An unidentified Giant got it in the puss before they caught up with Poillon.

The Redskins are definitely deceitful and not to be trusted in scoring position. Sammy Baugh of all people, bucked it over the middle. It was a six-inch sprint by Baugh on a quarterback sneak.

The Redskins are charging again, after the kick-off, and Sal Rosato bats his way 17 yards through the middle of the Giants' line. If the Redskins could build a better mouse-trap, they'd have had a touchdown on that play.

THE GIANTS TAKE time out, and Steve Owen's ways and means committee discusses the situation. The ample-waisted Owen goes on the gridiron to talk to Referee Emil Heintz and if he doesn't get off in a hurry the Giants will be penalized for having 12½ men on the field.

What power, what leg-drive! Baugh scored on a two-inch smash at the Giants' middle. Baugh's two touchdown sprints now aggregate eight inches, and he threatens to gain one full yard from scrimmage before the day is over if he can keep up his pace.

That's two touchdowns for Baugh in one day, equaling his touchdown output for his previous 10 seasons in the league, and now it's apparent that he's been loafing the last 10 years.

In the pressbox, a Redskin rooter, General Manager Dick McCann, comments, "If Baugh could only pass he'd make a whale of an all-round man for our club."

IT'S BAUGH PASSING now, a 35-yard heave to Duckworth on the Giants' 15, and Steve Owen scans the Giants' bench for a substitute with only 57 seconds of the half remaining. What he needs most are a few faces that could speed up a clock. The Redskins didn't score. Baugh, using bad strategy, didn't call his own signal.

21-7, Redskins, in the third quarter. From his own 26-yard line, Baugh apparently doubted his ability to buck it over for a touchdown and threw a 41-yard pass to Eddie Saenz who was hiding out on the Giants' 33, and it was a neat 74-yard scoring play.

Touchdown, Giants. Tackle Jim White scores on a 26-yard sprint. It was a very involved play, whcih I'll explain: The Redskins put the ball in play and then there was a lot of confusion, which never was cleared up. Anyway, White got the ball somehow and ran it for a touchdown. They say he stole it.

EDDIE SAENZ gets into Baugh's act, with a 94-yard kickoff return to a touchdown. He started out behind a wedge of blockers and then very saenz-ibly veered to the sidelines at midfield. Three Redskins took Safety Man Ken Strong out of Saenz's path with relish.

Touchdown, Giants. It was something pretty that Frank Reagan and George Franck whipped up—an 88-yard pass play after Reagan threw from his own one-yard line while collred by two Redskins. Franck took it at midfield, gave Poillon the slip on the 40, and breezed home.

It's 28-20 in favor of the Redskins with a minute to play, and you'd have to say the Giants are in foul shape, seeing as how they don't even have the ball.

Waterfield's 3 Scoring Passes Lead Rams Over Lions, 27-13

Detroit, Oct. 12 (AP).—With Bob Waterfield flipping passes for three touchdowns, the Los Angeles Rams squeezed out a surprisingly hard-earned 27-to-13 National Football League victory today over the Detroit Lions before 45,747 fans, Detroit's second largest turnout in pro football history.

Waterfield tossed 14 yards to Tom Harmon for the first Ram touchdown less than four minutes after the game got under way and pushed a 26-yard pass to his favorite target, big Jim Benton, in the end zone before the first period was over. He also connected with a 27-yard flip to another former University of Arkansas end, Howard Hickey, fo rthe third score two minutes after the half time intermission.

Harmon tore over tackle and galloped 32 yards for the final touchdown with just a minute and a half left in the ball game.

The Lions, succumbing for the fourth straight time in their series with the Rams, were in the ball game right down to Harmon's finishing touchdown sprint, principally on the pitching arms of Quarterbacks Roy Zimmerman and Clyde Leforce.

Leforce, freshman pro star from Tulsa University, threw a 33-yard touchdown pass to Bill Dudley in the second period and Zimmerman threw 54 yards to Halfback Pete Kmetovic on the second play of the final period.

Waterfield booted three extra points for the Rams, missing one.

Sammy Scores a Touchdown

By Charles DelVecchio—The Washington Post

BEING DIFFERENT—Slingin' Sammy Baugh, the Redskins' passing specialist, who rarely carries the ball on running plays, fooled the New York Giants twice yesterday at Griffith Stadium. Both times the 'Skins moved to within a yard of the goal line, Sammy took the ball himself and smacked hrough the line to score. Those two represented as many touchdowns as Sammy had scored in his previous 10 years of big league football. Above—Sammy does it the first time, crossing the goal line in the opening quarter by vaulting over Teammate Mike Garzoni (No. 27), who is crouched on the line. Giant Gene Roberts (No. 35) looks on helplessly. The Redskins won, 28-20

Browns Lose 1st in Twelve Games, 13-10

Cleveland, Oct. 12 (AP).—A 17-yard field goal by Ben Agajanian in the final three minutes enabled the Los Angeles Dons to top the Cleveland Browns, 13 to 10, and hand the All-America Football Conference champions their first defeat in 12 games in a bruising battle today before 63,124.

The Browns jumped into an early 10-to-0 lead, but the rugged Dons narrowed the advantage to 10 to 7 at half time, pulled even at 10-all at the end of the third quarter and then moved ahead on the field goal.

Agajanian, who is carried on the Dons' roster only for kicking purposes, did just that today. He booted another field goal to deadlock the score in the third quarter and added the extra point after the touchdown.

The Browns hadn't been beaten since November of last year, when the Dons turned the trick, 17 to 16.

Lou Groza booted a 28-yard field goal in the early minutes of the first quarter and the Clevelanders followed up with a touchdown in seven plays from their own 34, Marion Motley legging it from the Dons' 14 for his sixth payoff jaunt of the season. Groza added the extra point and the Browns were out in front, 10 to 0.

The Dons registered their touchdown in the second period. Motley fumbled on his 39. Chuck Fenenbock grabbed it on the fly and tore down the sideline for the score. Agajanian's placement was good.

Agajanian breeched the gap in the early part of the third quarter with his 46-yard field goal.

In the final three minutes Agajanian tried a field goal from the Cleveland 23. It was wide, but the Browns were offside and the Dons had another chance. On his second try from the 17, the ball sailed between the uprights and the Dons were ahead, 13 to 10, with two minutes and 45 seconds to go.

Graziano, Zale Bout Set for Charity Feb. 12

New York, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—Rocky Graziano will defend his middleweight championship against Tony Zale, former champion, in a return 15-round bout at Miami, Fla., February 12, Manager Irving Cohen announced tonight.

Cohen disclosed that the bout will be staged by Harry Voiler, Miami promoter, and that all profits will go to charity.

"Contracts for the fight have been signed by champion and challenger and their managers," Cohen said.

He added that 50 per cent of the profits would go to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund, and that 50 per cent would be divided among Miami charities. Voiler expects that the fight in the Miami Orange Bowl will attract more than $350,000.

Take Western Division Lead

Cardinals Stop Packers, 14-10; Chicago's Pat Harder Hurt

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 12 (AP).—The Chicago Cardinals, putting together two scoring drives of 53 and 75 yards, edged the Green Bay Packers, 14-10, today to take the undisputed lead in the National Football League's Western Division. A record crowd of 25,502 fans saw the game.

It was the first league defeat of the season for the Packers.

The victory may prove costly to the Cardinals as Marlin (Pat) Harder, the circuit's leading scorer until today, was hurt in the first quarter and saw little action from then on. The big fullback hurt his leg and although he attempted a field goal in the final quarter limped badly leaving the field.

Packers Score First

The Packers, playing before a rabid Green Bay crowd which packed the running track around the field, jumped off to an early lead after a fruitless midfield battle through the first quarter.

Elmer Angsman, quite a back with Charley Trippi today, scored the first Chicago marker with a 2-yard plunge near the end of the second quarter to climax a 53-yard march.

The Cardinals, hot when they left the field at the half, started roaring again as the third period opened. Trippi, running hard, returned Indian Jack Jacobs' punt 22 yards to start a drive. Then, alternating with John (Red) Cochran in a vicious ground attack, Trippi and the Cardinals drove to the 1 and Cochran crashed over for the score. Harder kicked both extra point.

Packers Score Again

The Packers took the kickoff, Tony Canadeo returnink 30 yards to his own 30. Walt Schlinkman sparked the ground attack and with Jacobs tossing 12 yards to Clyde Goodnight, the Packers marched to the 7. Canadeo, going wide around his own right end, scored and Fritsch kicked the point make it 15-10.

49ers Defeat Rockets, 42-28; Tie for Western Division Lead

San Francisco, Oct. 12 (AP).—San Francisco's 49ers defeated the Chicago Rockets, 42 to 28, today in a game witnessed by 23,300 fans.

The victory advanced the 49ers into a first-place tie with the Cleveland Browns in the Western Division of the All-America Conference. Cleveland lost to the Los Angeles Dons. The Browns and San Francisco each have five wins and one defeat.

The winners chalked up the game-clinching points in the third period after recovering two Chicago fumbles. One of the touchdown marches was good for 55 yards and the other started from Chicago's 19.

The 49ers scored three times in quick succession, the opening touchdown resulting from a 68-yard drive, with Quarterback Frank Albert throwing to Right End Alyn Beals for the last 14.

An intercepted pass on Chicago's 18 paved the way for the second touchdown, with Halfback Strzykalski rambling the last 4 yards.

Just beforethe firs tperiod ended, the 49ers recovered a Chicago fumble on Chicago's 12 and Hlafback Ned Mathews went over from the four.

Another intercepted pass gave San Francisco a touchdown in the second period. With the ball on the Rockets' 14, Quarterback Jesse Freitas passed to Beals, who caught the ball over the goal line.

Chicago put on a 79-yard march immediately after, with the touchdown resulting from a 50-yard run by Halfback Ray Ramsey. He took a lateral from End Jerry Mulready who had taken a short pass from Quarterback Allen Dekdebrun.

It took only two plays for the Rockets to score. John Rokisky placekicked the extra point, leaving the Rockets on the short end of a 28-7 count at half time.

Haights Were Big Eaters, So Pop Opened Grocery Store

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

My participation in Lucia Brown's "For Men Only" diet has been productive . I'm keeping away from the scales, so I don't know if I've lost any weight the last few days. However, I have received some fan mail and I don't mean from relatives.

One reader wants to know if I've always had a big appetite. To tell the truth, all the Haight kids were big eaters. In fact, my Pop had to open a grocery store in self-defense.

When I was a tot of four years, they tell me I disappeared one day. I fell in a barrel half full of ginger snaps and they found me hours later, sound asleep in the bottom and there wasn't as much as a crumb left. I've been a little on the barrel side ever since, if you know what I mean.

Another heckler wants to know if I'm not embarassed by my size. Well, I laugh off those references like Tubby, Lard, Fatso, and so forth. However, there are times when I'm in tough situations.

For instance, take the other night. I was chewing the fat (no wisecracks) with a group of thirsty ex-football players. At first they threw a few imaginary blocks to emphasize their stories, but it wasn't long before a former tackle staggered to his feet and said, "why don't we choose up sides and have a little game."

"What'll we use for a ball?" asked a bruiser in the corner.

And they all looked at me!

P. S.—Does anybody know how many calories there are in a cauliflower ear?

Colts Lose to Bills, 20-15, But Protest

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP).—The Buffalo Bills took a 20-15 All-America Conference win from the Baltimore Colts today for their fifth victory in seven starts, but the Colts announced they would protest the game to Commissioner Jonas H. Ingram.

With 13 seconds remaining on the field clock, Red Wright of the Colts recovered a fumble on the Buffalo 39. Bud Schwenk threw a pass that failed, then whipped another to Lamar (Racehorse) Davis, who went over the goal but officials claimed he was knocked out of bounds on the Bills' 2.

The gun, which is synchronized with the clock, sounded several seconds later, before the Colts could run a play.

Robert W. Rodenberg, Colts' president, announced the protest, claiming that the score should have been Baltimore 21, Buffalo 20, without an opportunity to attempt an extra point.

Wants Movie of Action Shown

He also suggested that Eddie Tryon, the field judge, and Ike Craig, the referee, be summoned to New York to view the moving pictures of the game.

A crowd of 27,345 saw the Bills run up their fifth triumph of the year against two losses.

The first half was played mostly in Buffalo territory. Ernie Case, former UCLA star, ran back the opening kickoff 50 yards and only a gallant goal line stand by the Bills staved off a Baltimore touchdown in the first three minutes.

Another Baltimore drive stalled on Buffalo's 20 but Augie Lio dropped back and booted a field goal as the first period ended.

Shortly after the second period began, George Ratterman, brilliant Buffalo quarterback, was downed in his own end zone for a Baltimore safety as he was attempting to pass.

Baltimore made it 12-0 midway through the second period when Schwenk faked handing off the ball and swept right end for a touchdown from Buffalo's 6. Lio converted.

Mutryn Tallies Twice

At this point, with Steve Juzwik and the elusive Chet Mutryn churning up the turf, the Bills drove to a touchdown. Mutyn negotiated the final 2 yards.

In the third period the Bills scored within three minutes of the second half kickoff when Al Baldwin outjumped two Baltimore backs and gathered in a 50-yard Ratterman pass and fell across the gol line for the score.

Buffalo pushed to a third score as the final period opened. Mutryn crashed through from Baltimore 9.

Yanks Beat Dodgers, 31-7

New York, Oct. 12 (AP).—New York defeated Brooklyn, 31 to 7, in an All-America Conference football game today, but the Yankees, like their baseball brethren a week ago, learned never again to show disdain to an underdog Dodger team.

New York registered 11 first downs to only four for the Dodgers, but in between their scoring thrusts the Yankee backs were thrown for losses that totaled 70 yards.

Yanks Start Early

New York waited only a little over four minutes to chalk up its first touchdown, going the final 30 yards on an Eddie Prokop to Jack Russell aerial and eight minutes later had its second.

This time Prokop smacked over from the three after Buddy Young had moved 43 yards in a pair of excursions through the line.

Lou Daukas, young Dodger center, intercepted a Yank pass early in the second period to set up the Brooklyn scoring chance. On the first play Mickey Colmer squirted through the line for 21 yards to the one.

He then banged it over and the rivals spent their remaining time throwing each other for losses.

Spec Sanders along for 53 yards on the second play of the third period for the third Yankee score and Young, who gained 86 yards in 11 tries, popped up out of a pile-up for an eight-yard scorig jaunt a few minutes later.

New York closed out the scoring mid-way in the final session on Harvey Johnson's 31-yard field goal, a 26-yard sprint by Bob Kennedy giving the Yankees their chance. The three-pointer was Johnson's fourth this year.

Saenz Runs Kickoff 94 Yards for Touchdown

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Slingin' Sammy Baugh scored as many touchdowns yesterday afternoon as he'd scored in all his 11-year professional football career, combining with Wingin' Eddie Saenz to lead the Washington Redskins to a 28-20 victory over the New Y rk Giants.

Washington thus jumped into a tie for Eastern Division leadership in the National Football League with Philadelphia, which was thumped by the Chicago Bears, 40-7. The Giants stayed at the bottom of the same standings as the Redskins came closer to evening the 22-game series between the clubs. It's now 12-9 for the New Yorkers with one game a tie.

STATISTICS

19	Forward passes attempted	24
13	Forward passes completed	9
214	Yards forward passing	159

12	Yards gained runback interceptions	0
42	Punting average	39
195	Total yards all kicks returned	133
1	Opponents' fumbles recovered	3
55	Yards lost by penalties	65

As a mob of 36,533 at Griffith Stadium gasped in amazement, Sammy, the nervous Texan who has thrown 112 touchdown passes since joining the Redskins, sneaked over for the home team's first two scores, following drives of 79 and 76 yards.

His only other excursions into the end zone were in 1937 and 1946, although one touchdown jaunt was called back.

Saenz Returns Kickoff 94 Yards

Saenz had a lot more running to do for the other Redskin scores. While Baugh was able to personally account for 12 points on two lunges that didn't total 1 yard, Saenz tallied on a couple of plays which were good for 168 yards.

The Southern Cal sprinter, with Washington nursing a squeaky 14-7 lead in the third quarter, took a 41-yard pass from Baugh (the Slinger's ninth scoring toss this season) and dashed 33 yards more.

And after the Giants suddenly came within one touchdown in the final quarter, Saenz grabbed the next kickoff and hung up his second 94-yard kickoff return this year.

With their fat seven points in every period, the Redskins had just enough for safety against a Giant club called the worst in Coach Steve Owen's reign.

Giants' Line Wilts

A highly publicized line sprang all sorts of leaks to give the Redskins a 10-2 edge in first downs rushing. Spotty passing accounted for only nine completions in 24 tries and the New York running attack lacked something of being devastating.

The Giants depended for their points on a first period line plunge and a fourth period dash of 26 yards with a pair of Redskin fumbles, plus an 88-yard pass play At the end they were making no serious threats of reversing the decision.

Baugh's one touchdown toss was included in a record of 13 completions in 19 attempts, good for 214 yards. But he wasn't the Redskins' sole offense.

Sal Rosato, lumbering 236-pound fullback, came even more into his own after being out with injuries during the early season. And there was Bob Nussbaumer, a new peoples' choice, hauling the ball for long ground gains and helping Baugh with his pass catching.

Dick Poillon, Redskin place-kicking expert, helped to sew things up early in the final quarter as he kicked his fourth straight extra point. That the game wasn't clinched by an even wider margin was the Redskins' own fault.

They roughed Giant passer Jerry Niles on the next to last play of the game, voiding an interception touchdown by Dick Todd, taken on the Giant 43 and carried

At Laurel.

DEAR FOLKS:

Chalk up another innovation for Laurel. For the Saturday program neon lines were placed an the tote board around the approximate odds figures. The conglomeration of lights and figures have been confusing to the occasional fans heretofore. Nice going. Jockey R. J. Martin almost missed the start of the weekend show. He was pinched for speeding. Perhaps that's why he rode so fast aboard Don O'Sullivan, his first mount of the day. Let's Dance, the favorite in last Friday's sixth race, ran so poorly the stewards investigated. The trainer said, "This horse doesn't like the track." So the stewards said, "Then there's no use running him; he's barred." Nice going. Charlie Feltner of the Berryville (Va.) Feltners, came in with his horse from Garden State as did his son, Claude. Don Blanche, author of the book "Off to the Races," visited me at the track last Saturday. There's no truth in the rumor he's writing another book entitled, "Off to the Poorhouse." Although I gave him some ideas. See you on the rail. —BILL.

Luckman's Passes Beat Philadelphia

Chicago, Oct. 12 (AP).—Quarterbacks Sid Luckman fired three touchdown passes, two covering 70 and 74 yards, to help upset the erstwhile unbeaten Philadelphia Eagles, 40 to 7 and give the Chicago Bears their first National Football League win before 34,338 at Wrigley Field today.

The sharp-shooting Luckman, completing 14 of 24 tosses for 318 yards, flipped the two long payoff tosses to End Kenny Kavanaugh, arched a 24-yard touchdown pass to End Mike Marmoluk, and with his passing set up two other Bear scores, both tallied on short plunges by Halfback Hugh Gallarneah.

The sixth bear touchdown came on a 29-yard pass from Luckman's reliefer, Nick Sacrinty, to End Jim Keane. Halfback Ray McLean booted four conversions.

The defeat was Philadelphia's first in three league starts and tumbled the Eagles into a tie for the Eastern section lead with the Washington Redskins, who today defeated the New York Giants, 28-20.

The erratic Eagle attack failed to spring Steve Van Buren loose at any time and produced Philadelphia's only score on a 60-yard pass from Tommy Thompson to Gil Steinke with the Bears ahead 33-0 in the final period.

After a scoreless opening period, the Bears sewed up the game with three touchdowns in the second quarter.

Plays Cornell

Navy Figures To Finally Win Saturday

Special Dispatch

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 12.—The end of Navy's 10-game losing streak is believed to be in sight this week, brought into clear focus by Bob Horne, the substitute quarter back who sparked the Midshipmen to their 14-14 tie with Duke at Baltimore last Saturday.

Second Classman Horne was first class in every detail against Duke after taking over the quarter back job from Reaves Baysinger, and Coach Tom Hamilton in grooming him for the regular job.

At least pending Baysinger's return to his 1946 form, Horne will see more action in Navy's future games — starting with next Saturday's battle with Cornell at Ithaca, N. Y.

Navy is not under-rating Cornell, which last week slapped down Colgate, 27 to 18, and lost only 14 to 0 to Yale, which conquered Columbia, conqueror of Navy. But the inspiring last-half surge of the Middies against Duke is giving Navy coaches more comfort than any other development of the season.

Matters are looking up for Navy in another direction. Weak all last season and this year too in the matter of extra points after touchdown, they apparently have found in young Jim Wills, freshly promoted from the Jayvees, an expert kicker. Wills, by the way, played for Bullis Prep of Silver Spring, just two years ago. He calmly booted the points that tied Duke on two occasions.

Vaughan Runs 100 Yards But His Metro Team Loses

Bill Vaughan of Snug Harbor Tavern raced 100 yards to a touchdown, but his team lost to Car Credit, 25-6, in an unlimited Eastern Division Metropolitan Football League contest yesterday at Snug Harbor.

Vaughan took a quick kick on his own goal line and his field-length dash was the longest touchdown run of the league season and the first touchdown scored against the first-place winners and Andy Davis went over for the fourth.

In other unlimited games, Anacostia Eagles downed Falls Church Gargas, 16-6, at Falls Church to hold the lead in the unlimited Western Division, Potomac Post, No. 40 upset Eig's Liquors, 7-0, and Mount Rainier routed Prince Georges Merchants, 27-0.

The Riverdale Rollers won their fourth straight 160-pound Eastern Division contest, 19-0, over the Shamrocks, and Southeast A. C. held onto its Western Division 160-pound lead by downing the Maryland Mohawks, 29-18.

Arrow Linen edged the Anacostia Lions, 7-6, and the Southwest Merchants defeated the Brookland-Woodridge Merchants, 13-6.

Pittsburgh Has It Easy With Boston

Boston, Oct. 12 (AP).—Scoring in every period, the hard-driving Pittsburgh Steelers today outclassed the Boston Yanks for a 30-14 National Football League victory before 18,894 paid fans at Fenway Park.

The victory was the second for the Steelers and the loss was the second for the Yanks, who have yet to win a game.

The Steelers, operating from Jock Sutherland's single wing formation with an occasional shift into a double wing setup, slugged out 276 yards aground.

Yanks Score on Two Passes

Until the fourth quarter when Quarterback Foley Dancewicz twice hit Right End Don Currivan with long touchdown passes, the Yanks were powerless.

The best the home forces could do was advance a puny 32 yards aground.

After a punt exchange in the opening stanza, the Steelers moved from their own 26 into the Yanks' end zone. Steve Lach, in for Campagno, finally cracked over from 6 inches out. Joe Glamp, in for Paul White, kicked the first of his four conversions.

White scored the second touchdown in the second quarter from the Pittsburgh 47 when, aided by a quick-forming interference, he spun and zigzagged his way across the goal line.

Lach Scores Again

John Clement, in for Slater, pegged a long heave to end Val Jansante which moved the Stelers in the third quarter from the Yank 46 to within one yard of a touchdown. On the last try Lach plunged over for the score.

Clement banged across the fourth Pitt six-pointer in the last period. He took it over from a yard out.

That score came after Dancewicz was trapped in his end zone by end Tony Bova. Dancewicz, trying to pass, was unable to find an uncovered receiver.

Then came Boston's two Dancewicz-to-Currivan scoring passes, preventing a shutout.

Skins Defeat Giants, Tie for Lead in East

57 brilliant yards only to be called back.

You wouldn't say the Redskins looked like a 14-point favorite their first time wit hthe ball. In four plays they picked up a single yard to their own 17 and Baugh kicked to Dave Brown, who returned 14 yards to the Redskin 49.

When the Giants were forced to kick back, Poillon helped their cause by fumbling as he was hit, Ray Poole recovering on the Redskin 13. It was third down and a yard to go from the four when big Bill Paschal slanted around right end and went into the corner of the end zone.

Baugh Sneaks Over

But the Redskins functioned like a favorite after the kickoff. A penalty helped toward a first down on their 32 and Joe Tereshinski's shoestring catch of a Baugh pass added another on the 45.

Again a penalty, this one for clipping, moved the hosts goalward and Poillon hit center once for a first down on the Giant 23. On the next play Poillon tried left tackle, tore away from Guard Ben Younce and wormed 21 yards to the Giant 2.

Baugh's first quarterback sneak left the ball inches short of the goal line but his second carried well into scoring territory. Seventy nine yards had been devoured to even the count at 7-7.

Play didn't exactly rage back and forth, it merely wobbled, until Saentz took Frank Reagan's 67-yard kick on his eight and romped back to the 24. Baugh got off three flat passes to Nussbaumer and Rosato carried four times as the Skins swept down to the 1-foot line.

Baugh Scores Again

It was only third down when Baugh, deciding it would be nice to score again, kept the ball and fell across the line, giving the hosts a 14-7 lead that stood up the rest of the way.

The third quarter was only a few minutes old when the Giants started a move. Jim Blumenstock's toss to Joe Sulaitis for 11 yards was the big gain as they pushed 39 yards to the Redskin 30 and there fizzled. On fourth down Strong tried a field goal that Poillon took on the one-yard stripe and carried to the 24.

One line buck by Rosato was followed by Saenz' first thriller. Baugh was back of his own 26 when he hurled, hitting the speeding Saenz on the Giant 33. Gregg Browning was the only defense man in Saenz' way and he had no chance of stopping his man.

Then the Redskins stalled a little. At least they played it very safe.

It was somewhere in the middle of Baugh's handoff to Nussbaumer that a fumble occurred and Tackle Jim White was there. He scooped up the ball and behind a beautiful two-man block by Reagan and several pushes in various Redskin faces, went over the goal.

The customers were hardly settled when they came up howling to watch Saenz again.

The Winger, duplicating the yardage of a stunt he pulled in Philadelphia, took the next kickoff on his 6-yard line and went all the way. As he broke through the main body of defenders only Lou Palazzi, Giant center, barred his way but there were three Redskins out front to block.

Frank Scores on Pass

That did it. The Redskins had all they really wanted, although they unbent enough for Baugh to hurl Todd a 36-yard pass during which Giant Frank Cope was waved out of the game for unsportsmanlike conduct. It looked like it was all over when Baugh punted out on the Giant 12.

But there was one more punch in the losers. Reagan, the former Penn ace, was trapped by three Redskins on the goal line when he tossed in desperation to Franck.

It was such a desperate heave the Redskins were all relaxed and Franck, something of a speedster himself, romped goalward on an 88-yard play. Poillon missed the last tackle on the Redskins 45.

Di Martino 8-5 Favorite Over Stonewall

Joe DiMartino, young Bridgeport, Conn., Italian, whose boxing fame rests on his knockout of Marty Servo, the former welterweight champion, last winter, will make his debut at Turner's Arena tonight against Washington's Stonewall Jackson, and reigns as 8-5 favorite.

The 10-round match, marking 18-year-old Stonewall's first as a headliner here, promises to produce plenty of vigorous punching. DiMartino is something of a slugger, and Stonewall is a combination boxer-puncher, who will take a gamble on one blow to achieve his objective.

Stonewall's handler, Billy Edwards, thinks the Phelps High athlete is ready to turn the trick and go into bigger things this winter. Stonewall, who has beaten Baltimore's Jimmy Collins and Johnny Johick of Philadelphia, has won 18 out of 20 pro bouts.

DiMartino, who was beaten in the Inter-Allied European Championships by the winner, Marcel Cerdan, gave Servo such a battering that the former champion quit the ring.

Sonny Boy Bunn will box Bobby Suma, Flat Top Cummings will fight Nate Palmer and Jimmy Jeannette will oppose Jimmy Cooper in five-rounders, while in fours, the first at 8:45, Billy Snead will take on Sam Jefferson and Henry Smith will meet El Davis.

Atom Week Observance Is Launched With Prayer

Spiritual Problem Of Fission Is Topic As Prince Georges Begins Discussion

The use and control of atomic energy was treated as a moral and spiritual issue, rather than a political problem, in the churches of Prince Georges County yesterday, as the county began its observance of Atomic Energy Week.

"Atomic energy is not the problem," said the Rev. C. H. Frick in his sermon at the Mount Rainier Christian Church. "Man Is the Problem."

America must meet the crisis, he added, and the church must assume the chief responsibility for the "motives and dynamics of peace," and the favorable atmosphere in which the spirit of peace may thrive.

New Foundations Needed

Atomic energy makes more pressing the need of new foundations for world cooperation, the Rev. W. Keith Custis, chairman of the religious groups section of the observance, told his congregation at the Riverdale (Md.) Presbyterian Church. The danger, he said, is that men will turn to the past rather than to the future, "seeking merely to reconstruct the foundations that their fathers knew."

The Federal Diary column by Jerry Klutz appears on the opposite editorial page (Page 9) today. The column will be on this page every morning except Saturday in the future.

Besides special sermons in 10 churches of the county, radio programs and vesper services stresesd the problems of our atomic world as the observance began.

Movie to Be Shown

Today's activities include four showings of the movie "Atomic Power" at Bladensburg High School, and a showing of the same movie at the Cheverly Theater at 8 p. m.

At 8 p. m. at the Berwyn School, the Berwyn Civic Association, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the P-TA and the Community Club will hear Alfred Friendly, The Washington Post reporter and see the film "Tale of Two Cities."

At the same hour the West Hyattsville Citizens Association will meet at the Lutheran Church, 38th and Legation sts., to see "Operation Crossroads" and hear Dr. Charles P. Saylor of the Washington Association of Scientists.

The Landover Community Club and the Landover Citizens Association will meet at the Selby store, Landover, at 8 p. m. for a discussion with Dr. L. Heilprin, of the Washington Federation of Scientists.

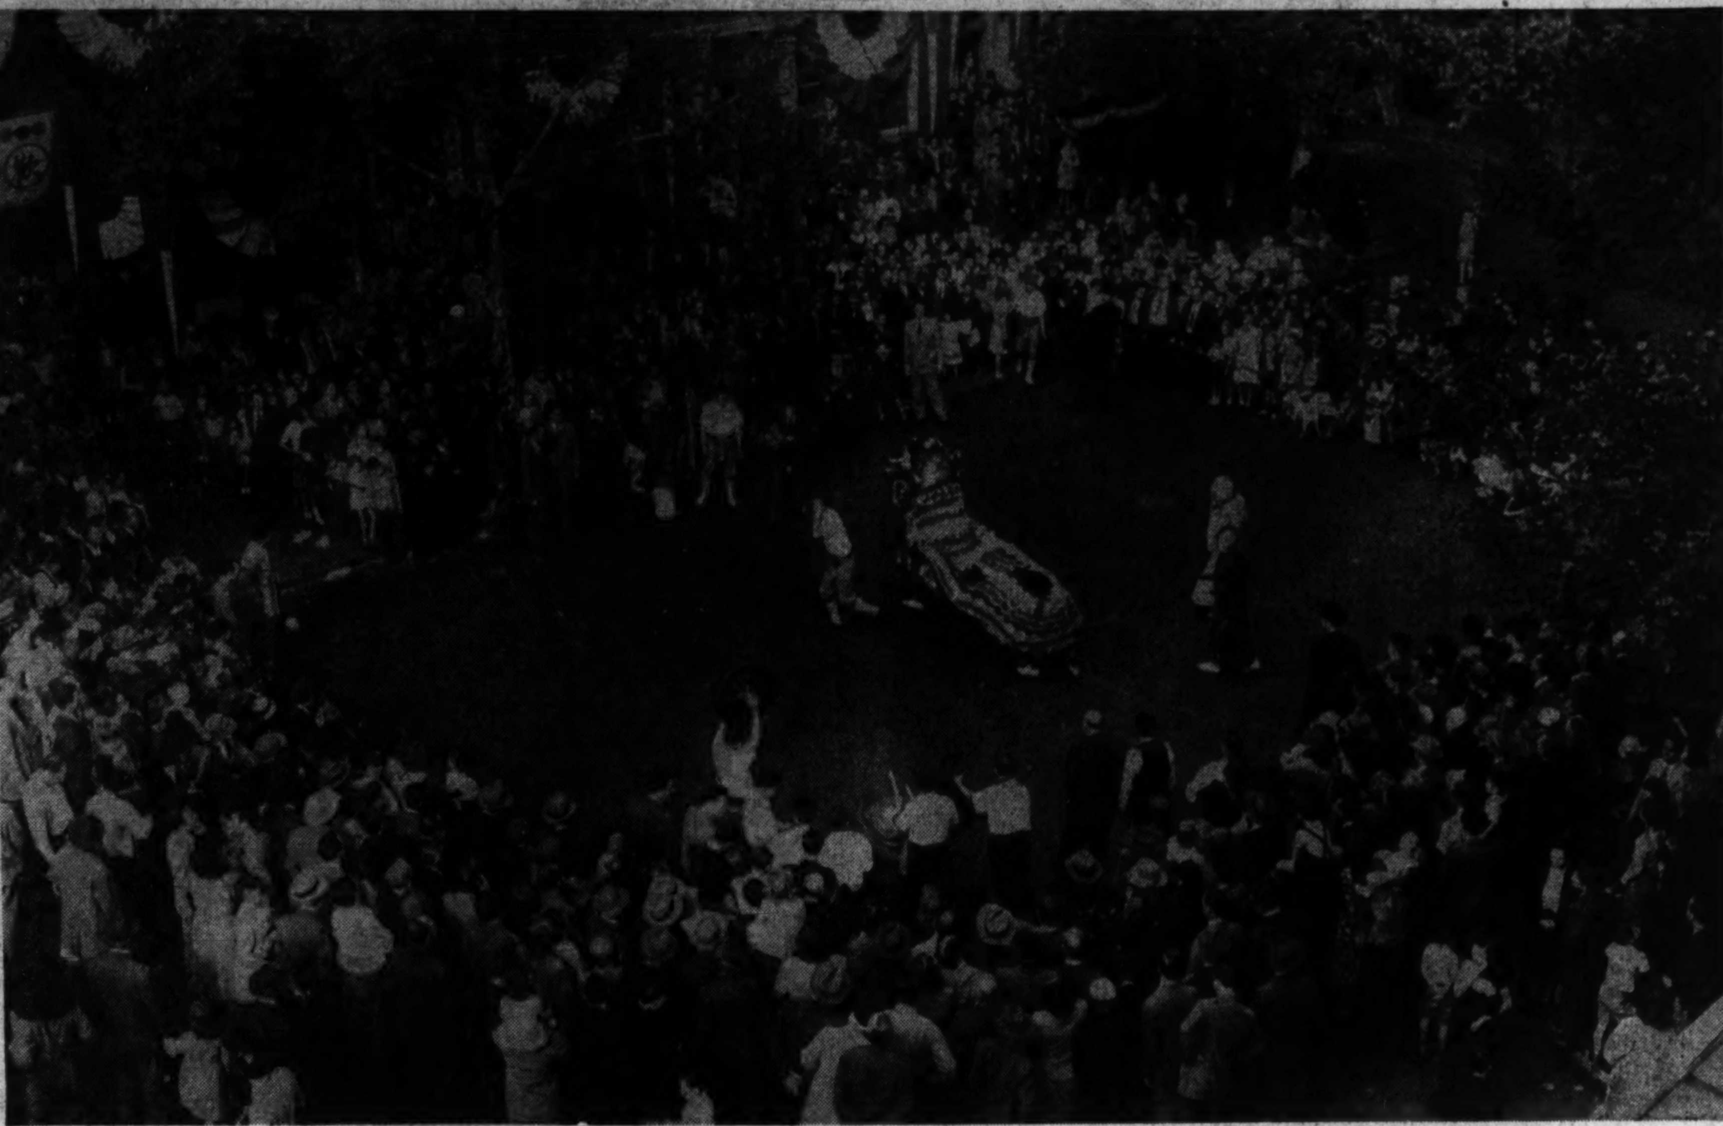
The Lees Let Loose a Lion in Chinatown Celebration



FAMILY FESTIVITY—Climax to celebration of the Chinese Lee family on H st. nw., yesterday was the traditional appearance of "the lion," who came from his lair in the left, bedecked with gay banners and danced to the center of the clearing. As the lion did so, cymbal player at bottom center let go with a splitting crash, as the lion made for a hapless victim, who ran with hands over head to ward off evil spirits. The Lee family dates its beginning to some 600 B. C., and members attended the reunion from all parts of the world

STAND IN AWE—Mabel Moy, 8, of 609 H st. nw., and David Moy, 12, of 900 6th st. nw., stand in awe as the Chinese "lion" approaches ceremonial drum in the Lee family celebration

Firecrackers, Capering Lion Mark Chinese Family Reunion

With firecrackers, a gay capering lion, and dances, the 200-year-old Chinese Lee family celebrated its third annual national reunion yesterday in afternoon festivities on H street.

As several hundred orientals and occidentals ringed the street before the Lee family headquarters at 617 H st. nw., and other faces peered from the windows of Washington's "Chinatown", the "lion", brought down from New York for the occasion, crept and caracoled in happy abandon.

When one or another of the two men animating him became tired he would be relieved, but the holiday lion pranced on to the primitive music of gongs, cymbals and deep-wood drum.

Interlude of Dances

Then an interlude of dances brought pause to the lion's activities.

The martial arts of the sword, battle fork, boxing and wrestling were interpreted in ritualistic dances, while the throb of the music brought reminder that when the earth was younger these dances were more than the athletic exercises they are today.

Then came the lion again, achieving a high climax when he seized a bag of money hanging from the door of the Lee family headquarters.

Ancestor Smiles On Scene

Upstairs, Li Erh, known to students as Lao-Tzu, the "Old Philosopher," through his picture on the wall smiled benignly across the pewter and cloisonne altar garniture.

From this pre-Confucian scholar born 600 years before Christ, and father of one of China's great religious systems, the Lee family claims descent.

A "family" dinner and open house followed the afternoon festivities, with Miss Mow Don Soo and Miss Hong Gong Gong, actresses from China, singing at the "open house."

Dr. Mildred Otenusch, associate professor of economics and political science of Trinity College, will be guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the Montgomery County Soroptimist Club Wednesday at Kenwood Golf and Country Club.

Dr. Otenusch will discuss "Topic Analysis of the International Political Situation." The Montgomery County Venture Club, sponsored by the Soroptimists, will be guests. Miss Ann Evans, soloist, will be accompanied by Mrs. Sue Blandy.

GOP Women to Dine

The Republican Women's Club of Montgomery County will open its season's activities with a dinner at 7:30 o'clock Thursday at the Dinner Bell, 7615 Wisconsin ave., Bethesda. Mrs. Clayton Cunningham is in charge of reservations.

Baltimore, Oct. 12 (AP).—State Police Trooper James S. Poteet reported he shot himself accidentally today during a melee in which four occupants of an automobile were arrested.

Poteet said a fifth person, whom he identified as the driver of the car, which led the State trooper a four-mile chase on the Liberty Road to the city line, escaped into a woods. Two men, a woman and a 15-year-old girl, were charged with assaulting Poteet.

Poteet said he was knocked to the ground after he stopped the automobile. He attempted to draw his pistol while on the ground, he said, and it discharged accidentally as he pulled it from the holster. Although wounded, he retained custody of the four. He was not seriously injured.

At Union Mission

Plain Talk About Christ Held Needed

A former Midwestern grain broker, now head of the largest rescue mission in America, yesterday urged more "plain talk" about Christ from pulpits.

Ludwig Armerding, superintendent of New York's famous McAuley Water Street Mission, addressed 1000 persons at the sixty-third anniversary mass meeting of the Central Union Mission at Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw. The mission's organizational meeting took place at Calvary Church 63 years ago.

Armerding, who entered mission work two years ago after 35 years in commercial life, said "that in this day and age, it is difficult at times to know just what the preacher is talking about, for they will occupy their hearers with everything under the sun except the Christ they claim to represent."

"We do not need one type of Gospel for the city, another for the suburbs and still another for the countryside," he said.

John S. Bennett, superintendent of the Central Union Mission from 1915 until his death in 1937, was converted at the Water Street Mission, oldest Rescue Mission in the world.

Edward H. DeGroot, jr., president of the mission's board of directors, presided at the meeting, attended by members of the churches that support the mission. The Rev. Herbert E. Eberhardt, mission superintendent, spoke and Mrs. Ebehardt directed a group of residents of the Mission Emergency Home in songs.

Maj. and Mrs. William J. Ramsey, who have served Central Union Mission for 60 years, will be honored at the anniversary annual meeting today at 8 p. m. at the Mayflower Hotel.

Perusse, physical education instructor at Montgomery Hills.

Rent Boost Leases Find Few Signers In Md., Va.

Action Under 1945 Housing Act Lags All Over Nation, Reports Disclose

Tenants and landlords in nearby States like those in the rest of the Nation, seem reluctant to sign leases increasing rent up to 15 per cent, as provided by the Housing and Rent Act of 1947.

Figures released yesterday by Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon, show that some 18,685 leases were filed with Maryland area rent offices in the first three months of the act's operation, covering only 6.5 per cent of the dwelling units subject to rent control.

In Virginoa, 8 per cent of the 253,024 tenants signed under the law, which allows the rent increases only on leases running through 1948. In West Virginia only 1.7 per cent of the 204,1 tenants signed.

These figures for the nearby States compare with an average of 8.2 per cent of the Nation's 15,700,000 rent-controlled tenants who have agreed to new leases with higher rents.

The law, which went into operation on July 2, does not apply to the District of Columbia, which has its own rent control act.

Wyoming and Nevada tenants and landlords have shown the least disposition to use the 1947 provisions, with 1.1 per cent of leases filed. Residents of Illinois seem to be the most enthusiastic. Some 27.7 per cent have agreed to new leases there.

Area News in Brief

Band Saw Nips Off Tip Of Navy Flier's Thumb

Lieut. Stanley H. Blumenthal, USN Air Corps, escaped injury in antisubmarine service throughout the war, but yesterday he found a band saw can be hazardous, too.

The lieutenant was ripping a board with a band saw at his home in Vienna, Va., when the saw nipped off the tip of his thumb. He started to Washington in a truck, but the truck broke down. He then hailed a taxicab operated by Leo I. Wolfarth of Halifax, Cabin John, Md., who took him to Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, aided by a Montgomery County Police escort.

At the hospital, the tip was bandaged back on the thumb, and Blumenthal was removed to National Naval Medical Center, where the tip was sewed on. The thumb is expected to heal.

Blumenthal is stationed at the Naval Air Station, Anacostia. He entered the Navy in 1942.

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 12 (AP).—The amount of Vitamin A and related carotin in milk was found to increase substantially when dehydrated sweet potatoes were substituted for corn in rations fed to dairy cattle during a recent Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station study.

Robert D. Mather, associate dairy husbandman, said milk production dropped slightly, but there was no significant difference in tests for butterfat percentage. Some cows ate as much as 20 pounds of potatoes a day.

The increase in vitamin A and carotin, which the human body converts into vitamin A, was described by Mather as highly desirable. He pointed out that vitamin A deficiency may result in "night blindness" and that an adequate supply is necessary to keep interior lining tissues of the body in healthy condition.

Official Welcomes Mean Work for Artists

When the District gets ready to "roll out the carpet" for visiting dignitaries, two artist-draftsmen in the city's Highway Planning Division roll up their sleeves and unlimber their drawing pens.

During the visitor's stay, Raymond A. Dean and Michael A. Codi whip up an artistic record of the Commissioners' "welcome"—suitable for framing and hanging over the mantel.

The finished product, a scroll complete with "Olde English" lettering and appropriate artistic decoration, is delivered to the honored guest along with the key to the city.

Never in Foreground

Codi and Dean are never in the foreground during such ceremonies, but they admit it gives them a kick to watch Commissioner John Russell Young deliver their handiwork to the visitors.

"It was quite a thing," Dean recalls, "to watch them make the presentation to President Aleman." Dean had a special seat in the front row of the reviewing stand when the Mexican President was welcomed to the city. "I got some swell pictures of him and President Truman," he says.

Dean, 32, says he began his art career at 13 making drawings for entry in contests sponsored by The Washington Post. "I won several prizes," he admits.

Encouraged by Parents

Codi, also 32, says his parents encouraged his interest in art by supplying paints and drawing equipment when he was a youngster.

Both men make drawings of proposed highway improvements when they're not slicking up "welcome" scrolls.

Jouxens, Switzerland, Oct. 12 (AP). Baron Henri de Rothschild, 75, a descendant of both the Paris and London branches of the famous banking family, died here today. The remains will be taken to Paris for burial.

Baron Rothschild, doctor of medicine, art collector, dramatist and industrialist, was perhaps the best known of all the many descendants of Meyer Amschel Rothschild, the money changer of Frankfort-Am-Main, who laid the foundation for one of the world's richest families.

As a young doctor—the first of that great family to enter a scientific career—his studies of infantile diseases and milk as a food won universal respect.

Wrote Plays as Pascal

Writing under the name of Andre Pascal, Rothschild was the author of a dozen plays. He constructed and operated Paris' most luxurious and thoroughly mechanical theater, the Pigalle.

As an art collector, he had the finest collection of Chardin in the world. His had many valuable Bouchers and Fragonards, as well as priceless Goeblins and Beauvais tapestries.

His library contained some of the rarest books.

In 1942, the Vichy government confiscated all Rothschild's holdings and revoked his French citizenship under Vichy anti-Semitic laws. The council of state reinstated the baron's citizenship in 1944 and all possessions that had not been sold by the Vichy government were returned.

In British Society

Baron Rochschild was educated and lived in France, but was prominent in British society and was a member of the Royal Yacht Squadron at Cowes.

His early studies in medicine were responsible for his building and endowing the Henri de Rothschild surgical clinic and the Mathilde Hospital, named for his wife, Mathilde Weisweiler, who died in 1926.

They had three children, two sons, James and Philip, and a daughter, Nadine, married to a French diplomat.

Columbus Day Celebrated at Embassy Fete

By Marie McNair

Th Charge d'Affaires of Spain and Senora de Baraibar paid tribute to both the man and the day when they entertained at a Columbus Day reception yesterday at the embassy.

Spanish speaking peoples were predominant in the group of 300 or more invited to the late afternoon fete, and there were a number of young people to enliven the scene, friends of Anita and Teresa daughters of the house, who are extremely popular in Washington. Invited for six o'clock, it was closer to seven before guests began arriving in numbers.

Wears New Hemline

Senora de Baraibar stood in the green drawing room to welcome the guests, wearing a simple black frock with high neck accented with strands of pearls. "Not for me, the long dresses," she had said. "I'm too old." But her hem line was fashionably below mid-way and she looks too young to be the mother of two teen-age daughters, and another, Alicia, who must be all of twelve.

Anita and Teresa were as pretty as the proverbial pinks yesterday, the one in bouffant black taffeta with tiny satin stripes, the other in a full skirted gown of shell pink satin covered with delicate black lace. Both were ankle length.

Early comers were the former Counselor of the Polish Embassy and Mme. Kwapiszewska, who don't often go to parties these days, and Mrs. Consuelo Seoane, wearing an emerald green ostrich hat on her Titian hair, talking over the Guy Martins' Saturday night dance with young Marvin Coles.

Gathered in the patio with its blue lined fountain I saw the Brazilian Ambassador and Mme. Martins, surrounded by friends; the Chilean Ambassador, Felix Nieto del Rio, and the Honduran Ambassador, Julian Caceres, still losing weight and still refusing to give away his secret diet.

Senora Fernandez-Davila, wife of the Charge d'Affaires of Peru, was there in a black frock and tiny pink feathered hat, admiring the floral painting over the fireplace in the library the hostess had painted.

In Native Costume

Senora de Benitez, wife of the Second Secretary of the Philippine Embassy, was the lovely lady in native costume, a gown of palest yellow mousseline almost solidly embroidered with tiny white flowers.

Others there were Admiral and Mrs. Chester Nimitz, the Second Secretary of the Cuban Embassy and Senora de Rivero, Gen. Wade Haislip and Mrs. Haislip in the new ankle-length cocktail gown, hers of smoke blue satin; Mr. and Mrs. James J. Houghteling and Mrs. Eldridge Jordan in her favorite black and bunched with her favorite white carnations.

It was nice to see Capt. Colon Eloy Alfaro, former Ambassador of Ecuador, who's on the wing much of the time, his export-import business being the reason for his frequent absences from town. Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Verges were there and then there were Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Miss Joan Exnicios with a beau; Lothrop Stoddard, and Zoya in a mantilla draped hat; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ross who lived for so long in Spain, and Constantine de Stackelberg who was catching a train a bit later to join Mrs. de Stackelberg in New York.

Miss Boggess is a graduate of Baylor University. Mr. Hardin spent four years in the Pacific theater during the war.

Russian-Born Author Got First Taste of Success in D. C.

By Bessie Hackett

It was while living in Washington back in 1929 that Natalie Anderson-Scott, author of "The Story of Mrs. Murphy," a recent Book-of-the-Month Club selection, got her first firm foothold on the road to literary success.

"I won a short story contest conducted by a little magazine published in the West," recalls the blonde, Russian-born writer who will be an honor guest and speaker tomorrow at The Washington Post Book and Author luncheon at the Statler Hotel. "The prize was a hundred dollars and I sold the editor several more stories for about $15 each," she adds proudly.

At about the same time, she started sending stories to Adventure Magazine—with remarkable success, both literary and financial.

"They paid up to 5½ cents a word," she confides, "and I stretched the stories as long as I could—about 10,000 words."

Prize Winner at Nine

Born in the Ukraine, of Russian parents of English and Scotch ancestry, Natalie moved to London with her family when she was only a year old. Even during early grade school days, she scribbled fiction. Encouraged by her engineer father, who wrote about big-game hunting, and her mother, who contributed a travel column to Russian newspapers, she won her first literary prize at the age of 9—an essay on prevention of cruelty to animals. Her reward, a copy of "Black Beauty," she treasures to this day.

Just before the first World War, Mr. Sokoloff brought his family to the United States and they lived first in Dayton, then Montclair, Washington and New York.

"Every time I come to Washington it's like coming home," he declares. The Sokoloffs lived for two years on Kilbourne st., near Rock Creek Park and Natalie's younger sister, Nina, attended Maret French School.

The attractive writer of adventure stories began building her reputation as a novelist in 1935 with publication of "So Brief the Years," which she describes as something like "Forever Amber." Her heroine, Zeneida, was a Russian adventuress of the Revolution period.

When she started writing about Americans and American scenes, Natalie Sokoloff decided it was high time to change her name, too. So she went to court and emerged with a combination of her parents' family names — Anderson-Scott, which she used for "The Sisters Livingston," a novel of a New England family.

Writing New Book

Her most recent book, which deals with the disintegration of Jimmy Murphy, an alcoholic, will be followed next year by "The Husband," a story of married life laid in Boston during the colonial era. Two chapters are already written.

Miss Anderson-Scott does all her writing in ruled copy books with the same "lucky" fountain pen she has used for years, and which no longer holds ink.

"That's where all the words come from," she laughingly explains, when friends try to make her change to a pen that won't need dipping.

The author resorts to a typewriter only when she's ready for her last draft. She laboriously uses the hunt-and-peck system but insists on doing the task herself.

"I can revise as I go along," she says, and is delighted on specially "speedy" days when she turns out 10 typewritten pages in 9 hours.

NATALIE ANDERSON-SCOTT . . . won "Black Beauty"

Besides writing, she is also a talented painter with a preference for watercolors, landscapes and still life.

Accompanying Miss Anderson-Scott to Washington is her sister, Nina, a ballet dancer who conducts a school in New York and another in New Rochelle. Incidentally, Natalie did the first choreography for Nina when the latter was in kindergarten.

The sisters have just bought a house in Westchester, which they're in the throes of decorating, mostly in the bright colors Natalie loves so much.

Mary Haworth's Mail

At Friend's Request, Man, 25, Bashful Type, Squires Older Woman, Separated From Husband; Now She Acts Possessive and He Feels Stymied

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Two years ago when I came out of the service, at the request of a mutual friend I started paying some attention on a platonic basis to a woman older than myself, who is separated from her husband and has three children.

I am 25 and have always been rather bashful. Girls hadn't interested me much. This woman, I'll call her Jane, told me she loved me; the first time I'd been told that; and I must admit I liked being told. She also said that if she were free we probably could make a go of it.

About the same time I met Peggy, 22, who was getting a divorce and going around with my buddy, whom she had known all her life. Some weeks ago Jane went on a trip and while she was away I went out with them. Soon Peggy and I were going out alone.

Young Divorcee Captivates Him

I FEEL more at ease with her than with any person I've ever known and we have fun together whatever we do. She has two young children, much younger than Jane's, and I think we'd hit it off fine. Jane can't get a divorce very easily; and anyway, there is nothing definite between us, whereas Peggy and I are more or less talking plans.

Now Jane is home and Peggy says I have to make a choice, as she doesn't believe in sharing a man and I've been seeing Jane—not knowing what to say. Naturally my choice is Peggy, but how can I tell Jane without hurting her feelings? That's what I'm up against.

Jane blew up when she found I'd been going with Peggy; but when I tell Peggy I've seen Jane, she says she understands how I'd feel obliged to, when Jane doesn't know all the facts. However, she says I've got to tell her soon—and that's that. Jane and I don't have much fun and I wouldn't want to take her children. This is definitely a problem. I'm in a jam. Please advise me. F. B.

He's in Dither, Not in a Jam

DEAR F. B.: You are in more of a dither than a jam. After all, you don't owe your heart and hand—or craven compliance—to this woman or that one who happens to want you.

Jane hasn't a vested right to your society. The fact that you've paid her some attentions and nave been receptive to her sweet-talk doesn't establish a binding alliance. You are free to cross her off your calling list when, as and if the spirit moves you to do so.

Assuming her heart has been fixed on marrying you or retaining you as courtier indefinitely, there aren't any explanatory phrases that will soften the blow. Thus the manly art of bowing out consists in being gently frank but firmly final in taking leave.

If you're seriously interested in Peggy, there's no point in beating around the bush with Jane, trying to assauge her anxiety with false pretenses or calling back to supposedly poultice her feelings. As a matter of fact, these were cowardly gestures in such circumstances, which only prolong mutual distress.

Assert Freedom And Be Cautious

SO, in your curtain speech tell Jane the truth, namely, that you have valued her friendship and interest, but for various reasons—from your viewpoint, at least—there was never anything serious in the cards, and now you think you're in love with Peggy.

At any rate, you don't want to deceive her about your feelings or intentions, and all things considered—including her objections to your interest in Peggy—you've decided it's best not to see her (Jane) any more. In other words, don't apologize for your decision, nor labor your right to act upon it. Just state your case and make it stick.

However, about Peggy: My advice is to stop, look and listen. Don't let her stampede you into marriage on the basis of short acquaintance. Due to youthful high spirits, she may be more fun than Jane, but she's no less bold and dictatorial in pursuit of a potential "catch." In general it seems they're much the same type, and rather poor risks in the role of wife. M. H.

An unhappy wife asks Mary Haworth's advice about a husband who "just sits around the house, never wanting company." See the Letters Column tomorrow for Miss Haworth's probing into the cause of this home situation.

'Excess Baggage' Shortens Life's Span

By Lucia Brown

IT WOULD be different if your spouse were the Aga Khan, whose subjects give him his weight in gold or diamonds every now and then.

Generally speaking, however, portliness doesn't pay.

Some men have been famous though fat, it's true — William Howard Taft, for instance, Henry VII, Diamond Jim Brady, and Old King Cole. But 20 times as many who were outstanding in history have been of normal weight or downright thin.

Famous or otherwise, the lightweight is likely to enjoy the blessings of life longer than the guy of gargantuan girth. For every extra 50 pounds you have at the age of 50, statisticians say, your life expectancy is cut by 50 per cent.

AMONG adults who are 5 to 14 per cent overweight, the death rate is 22 per cent higher than among those of normal weight. Those from 15 to 24 per cent overweight have a death rate increase of 44 per cent. And the death rate jumps to 74 per cent for those who are 25 per cent or more above normal weight—about a million fat persons in the United States.

YES, parting with the pounds is a healthy business. They interfere with the play of the muscles, causing them to deteriorate. In the long run, they lead to weakness of the heart.

A loss in poundage is a gain in long life, good health, good looks, success and happiness.

Ask Anne Your Questions on Homemaking

1. Recently I purchased a second-hand mahogany piano about 25 years old. The instrument is in good condition except the finish, which has all the fine cracks that usually develop on an old piano. I've rubbed it down with steel wool and improved it somewhat but would appreciate some help from you on how to remove the outer layer of varnish or shellac without having to have the instrument refinished professionally.

2. The keys are slightly off color. Is there anything one can do to improve them other than exposing them to the sunlight?
M. H.

1. As you may know, the piano case and its finish has much to do with the sound of the instrument. Because of this, the job of removing the varnish and shellac and refinishing should be turned over to a professional refinisher. However, if you wish to do the job yourself, use a commercial varnish remover to remove the old finish. Be sure to go over the surface with alcohol or turpentine after all varnish to get off every trace of the varnish remover. And care must be taken not to get the remover under the layers of veneer as it will dissolve the glue and cause the veneer to become loose.

2. Go over the piano keys with a cloth moistened with denatured alcohol when they need cleaning, and continue to expose to the light. You cannot hope to lighten the keys, but the above treatment will prevent further discoloration.

Can you give me any information in regard to the proper procedure for blocking needle-point seat covers for dining room chairs? The chairs have slip seats. Should the covers be blocked before they are tacked onto the seat pads? D. A. S.

Place the seat covers on a well-padded ironing board, needle point side up, cover with a damp heavy cloth and press with a hot iron. Be very sure the edges are straight before pressing. Yes, they will look much better if blocked before tacking onto the seat pads.

First editions, antiques and left-handed teacups interest some people as collectors' items. I'm no collector, except when it comes to used fats. Golden Gate Opens Wide as First Who Fell in World War II Come Home

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Out of the Pacific– Thousands gather on the shore of San Francisco Bay to pay respects to the returning dead of World War II—first to come home aboard the funeral ship Honda Knot (left background), inbound from Honolulu, carrying 3028 bodies. The Secretary of the Navy and high-ranking service officers are in the speaker's stand. The dead, most of them victims of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor, received a Nation's grateful tribute. The transport, escorted by a destroyer, rides anchor 300 yards off the curving Marina shore, just inside the Golden Gate

Intrigued by the set-up are Gary Reaves, 4, and his brother, Glenn, 18 months old, of 1320 Harvard st. nw.

Sen. Cain Praises Eisenhower's Military, Political 'Mastery'

Senator Cain (R., Wash), asked about Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a presidential possibility, said yesterday that few men have a similar mastery "of things military and political."

Cain, in a radio interview over WEAM, Arlington, declined to comment further on the developing drive among some Republicans to nominate the Army Chief of Staff for President. Eisenhower is to become president of Columbia University next year.

The West Coast Senator also was asked about the adequacy of Alaskan defenses against the possibility of a Russian attack. He replied:

"I would say that the defenses of Alaska are keeping pace with the needs and the demands of the day in which we live. I, as a citizen and not a Senator, was very much encouraged by what I saw going on in those northern lands of ours."

Cain was in Alaska for several weeks recently. He said that "if trouble comes" Alaska would be the first point of attack.

WAA Sells All But 7 Of 23 U. S. Refineries

The War Assets Administration said yesterday it had disposed of all but seven of the 33 Government-owned refineries built during the war to produce aviation gasoline.

It said 22 of the refineries, which cost 167 million dollars, have been sold for $53,700,000, or more than 100 per cent of their appraised fair value of 53 million dollars. Two others were leased and two turned over to the Office of Rubber Reserve.

3 Jesuits Mark 60 Years in Priesthood

Three Jesuit priests, 78, 77 and 75 years of age, celebrated completion of 60 years in the Catholic order of the Society of Jesus here yesterday, commenting: "We're now awaiting our next orders—whatever they may be."

The three priests, in order of age, were the Rev. Joseph J. McLoughlin, assistant pastor at St. Aloysius Church; the Rev. Laurence J. Kelly, assistant at Holy Trinity Church; and the Rev. Thomas A. Becker, another assistant at St. Aloysius.

Fathers McLoughlin and Becker entered the order as novices on the same day, August 13, 1887, at the old Jesuit Novitiate at Frederick, Md., and Father Kelly entered there as a novice only a day later.

All three were ordained priests in 1903, and the ensuing years took them far apart only to bring them finally back together here in Washington.

Father Becker served seven years in the Philippines, two years there as assistant chaplain in a leprosy camp. Father McLoughlin served several years as a missionary in Jamaica. Father Kelly, spending his years within the United States, was associate editor for a year of "The Messenger of the Sacred Heart," a Jesuit publication, and for 11 years was a home missionary in southern Maryland.

The Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, the Apostolic Delegate to the United States, presided at the mass at St. Aloysius Church yesterday morning, held in celebration of the three priests' 60 years of Jesuit service. The Apostolic Delegate conveyed congratulations to each of the three.

Father Becker is a native of Washington, his great-grandfather, a stonecutter, having immigrated here from Luxembourg to do stone work on the Capitol wings. Father McLoughlin was born in New York, and Father Kelly in Philadelphia.

Pravda Says U. S. Seeks to Purge U. N. Staff Slavs

Moscow, Oct. 12 (AP).—Correspondents for Pravda, Communist Party organ, declared today that the United States was endeavoring to transform the United Nations staff into an "American office."

Implying that the United States State Department was attempting to persecute members of the U. N. staff opposed to department policies, Boris Izakov and Yuri Zhukov asked whether the U. N. was to be an international organization or just another bureau of the United States.

They accused Byron Price, assistant secretary-general in charge of administrative and financial affairs, of attending to purge the U. N. staff of "slavic" and "democratic" members.

(There was no immediate comment from U. N. officials.)

Distinctive English Home

We have the pleasure and privilege of presenting one of the finest and most beautiful homes in Washington. It was built by the owner some 10 years ago. It was constructed with the finest materials and labor. To duplicate it today would be impossible. Such material and labor are not available. It is of stone construction and is beautifully arranged. You enter a spacious entrance hall, the gracious living room with fireplace is on the left, and this opens on an exquisite terrace. To the right are the library with adjoining powder room, and a large dining room, breakfast room and a completely modern kitchen. To reach the second floor one must ascend a beautiful spiral staircase. The 3 bedrooms on this floor may be all considered master rooms, the 2 bathrooms are quite interesting. One features a square tub and the other a separate stall shower. The attic is completely finished. The building is thoroughly insulated, the floors are incomparable. Basement contains a pine-paneled recreation room with fireplace, hobby room and the finest oil heating unit available. The garage is attached and placed in a most interesting manner. The house is on a large and beautifully landscaped lot. If you are looking for a home with charm, distinction and grace this will completely satisfy you. Priced at $52,500.

14-ACRE ISLAND

Located in Northumberland County, Va., on the Great Wicomico River; deep blue water and electricity carried right up to the buildings; a new road has been built, extending out onto the island. About 100 acres in excellent 1st grade timber. This is certainly a beautiful setup for a person who would subdivide, because of the long shore line and excellent beach. A great part of this could be sold off without hurting the farm. The house, which has been remodeled, has 9 rooms, lovely porches, overlooking water and an exquisite view.

The other house is in excellent condition, with ramdom-width floors and also has a lovely view. The present owner, who is ill, has an investment in this place of over $35,000 and his oyster and fishing rights are worth half that.

The place is too far from Washington to commute, but for a gentleman's home this famous old place (Mountain View) is one where you can enjoy all of the gracious charm of the historic Northern Neck and at the same time show a profit.

I shall be glad to show the place by appointment because it won't last long at $26,000.

Redskins Thrown for Loss, But Povich Saves Three Cents

Mrs. Eleanor Benjamin of 4921 1st st. nw. tells a fetching story about a "job" she pulled recently.

She decided that it would be nice to have porterhouse steak for dinner, but her household funds were a bit short at the moment. (I'm glad to hear that it happens to other people, too.)

So Mrs. Benjamin broke into her son's piggy bank, to float a small loan—but it didn't work.

Most of junior's doting relatives have been dropping car tokens into the piggy bank, she discovered.

So the Benjamins waited a day for their steak, but Children's Hospital is 14 tokens richer.

Note to Children's Hospital: My check for $7 is to cover cash sent to me by District Liners. You'll also find a check from Shirley Schlossenberg of 3712 Brandywine st. nw.

The tokens are getting too bulky to mail, so I'll bring them up when I get some more.

The check from Attorneys King & Nordlinger, to the order of Henry Berman, has an interesting history.

Berman sent some money to the Redskins, together with an order for tickets. The 'Skins kept his dough for months, then returned it—without tickets.

Berman demanded interest on his money, sued in Small Claims Court, and got an out-of-court settlement of $6.57. He sent the check from the lawyers to Shirley Povich for forwarding to Children's Hospital. Povich didn't have a stamp, so he stuck it in my envelope.

PERSONAL NOTE

Miriam Sabine, 4525 Reno rd. nw.; Mrs. V. L. Rye, Brandywine, Md., and Mrs. Nick Galminas, 409 Newcomb st. se.:

The big parking ticket mix-up at National Airport has been brought to a happy ending.

When Mrs. Libby learned from our item that the airport cops were still waiting for somebody to pay the fine, she immediately offered to settle with them.

But she discovered that Capital Airlines had gotten there first, and had paid the $3. So the case is now closed, and we can go back to worrying about getting a hard-hitting left fielder for the Nats.

PUBLICITY (UGH) STUNT

Mrs. Gertrude Young of 6217 8th st. nw. wonders who "Red" is, and why he's back in Washington.

She was paying her bill in a local supermarket yesterday when one of the pennies in the transaction turned up with a piece of white paper glued to its back.

On the paper were the words, "Red Is Back in Town," printed in red letters.

By a strange coincidence, I got a picture postcard two weeks ago. It was also written in red ink, and read:

"See you in two weeks.
"RED."

The card showed a view of San Francisco, but it was postmarked from Chicago. I spent two weeks trying to figure out the identity of "Red"—but now I think I know.

Red is a publicity stunt for somebody or some thing, and we'll probably (ugh!) soon find out for what.

SUGGESTION

Since the food conservation program began, there's been some discussion of the possibility of reducing the size or weight of bread loaves.

Mrs. Tom Pritchard of [illegible] Maple st. nw. concedes that there's a much simpler solution: Just have the bakeries make the slices thinner.

PROGRESS REPORT

The Weatherbird names have been whittled down to a couple of dozen survivors. The winner should be along very soon.

HOW ABOUT AN INTRODUCTION, UNK?

Did you know that the only Hayworth in our local telephone book is the uncle of Rita (yum) Hayworth?

I didn't either, until Pete Dickerson, the publicity man for "Down To Earth," called my attention to this valuable piece of information.

Our local Hayworth is Vernon M., of 8717 2d ave., Silver Spring, Md.—who turns out to be a swell guy, and a member of the family which operated the Hayworth Printing Co. on Northwest G st. for about 50 years.

QUESTION

And if you're so sharp—W. N. G. of 5210 Wisconsin ave. nw. wonders if you know which piece of fire-fighting apparatus can't use Pennsylvania ave. Chew on that one for a while.

Briton Looks Lovely in Costume

NEW YORK.—Lorraine Miller, of "Happy Birthday," was at the Biltmore Hotel Monday night, attending the party given by the victorious Yankees. Miss Miller carried a sheet of paper on which she collected the autographs of Joe DiMaggio, Frank Shea, Tommy Henrich, Johnny Lindell and the rest of the Yankee stars. When she asked Joe Page for his autograph, the pitcher—who often had met Miss Miller at Toots Shor's—was puzzled. "This isn't for me," Miss Miller told him . . . "I thought not," Page told the actress. "After all, what would you be wanting autographs for? You give them, not collect them" . . . "The autographs," explained Miss Miller, "are for Helen Hayes."

COSTUME: Tara Pandit, daughter of the Indian delegate to the United Nations, visited her mother at the Hampshire House. In the elevator she met a striped-trousered Englishman who said to her: "Miss Pandit, you look lovely in your native costume" . . . Miss Pandit replied: "So do you."

SETTLEMENT: Some months ago Sergei Koussevitzky brought suit to suppress the biography about him written by Moses Smith. Koussevitzky insisted that this unauthorized biography was a violation of his privacy, etc . . . This week the case finally was closed. Koussevitzky paid the publishers of the book, Allen, Towne & Heath, Inc., almost $5000 for damages resulting from his suit.

FEE: Howard L. Chernoff, West Virginia's foremost radio man, wrote to the Washington & Lee athletic director, asking that he recommend one of the students to act as a spotter during the broadcast of last Saturday's game against West Virginia University, at Charleston. The fee was $10, and Chernoff asked that the student-spotter selected be a sports-expert . . . The athletic director replied by wire: "I am asking one of our students to report to your man as the W. & L. spotter. He will be happy to earn the $10." The athletic director added that the young man, Fred Vinson, jr., had learned about athletics from his father "who used to be a pretty fair sort of country judge over near there."

CHANGE: Emanuel Shinwell, chairman of Britain's Labor Party, who was removed from his post as Fuel Minister Tuesday, was elected to Parliament by a majority of 29,000 votes. Shinwell had been assured by pollsters who made a pre-election survey that he could not possibly lose the election. "But I won by only 29,000 votes. My majority should have been at least 31,000," Shinwell said. "I call it a moral defeat."

CHATTER: Drew Middleton has been refused a visa by the Russians, and will not return to his Moscow post for the Times.

Lena Horne will make her European debut at the London Casino November 10 . . . Mrs. Burl Ives is ailing at Mount Sinai Hospital.

Every living former Secretary of State is sending a congratulatory message to be read at the October 19 Freedom House dinner to Secretary Marshall.

THE HECHT COMPANY SALUTES THE CITIZENS OF WASHINGTON WHOSE HOMES ARE IN

NEW JERSEY... the garden state

Since pre-Revolutionary days, New Jersey has played a vital role in the history and progress of our country . . . in cultural growth . . . and industrial and agricultural development. The achievements of the past have welded a framework for the accomplishments of today and hopes of tomorrow. The foundations of New Jersey's industrialization were laid in 1791 through Alexander Hamilton's Society for Establishing Useful Manufactures. Today, New Jersey is an industrial dynamo whose might has far exceeded the dreams of the most visionary of these early planners. New Jersey's sons have made historic contributions to modern science. At Menlo Park, Thomas A. Edison made the discoveries and inventions which have changed the pattern of our daily lives, and laid the groundwork of our scientific progress since that time. New Jersey's brilliant record in research and development is continued in many industrial laboratories . . . and at Princeton University, which has provided a haven for Albert Einstein and other leading scientists who probe beyond our present scientific frontiers into the unexplored mysteries of the universe. We hope that this work will help to uphold in America . . . and spread throughout the world . . . the ideals stated so concisely in our New Jersey motto . . . "Liberty and prosperity." The State Society thanks The Hecht Company for the privilege of delivering this statement to fellow citizens of Washington.

William J. Fleming
